BCE Talks Set

Out-of-court discussions, aimed at simplifying the tangled B.C. Electric litigation, will be held "possibly Monday," Attorney-General Robert Bonner said Friday.

The attorney-general, who made the statement at a press conference, said time and place had not been decided.

The attorney-general disclosed that Douglas McK. Brown, counsel for B.C. Power Corporation, parent body of the expropriated B.C. Electric, had written government counsel M. M. McFarlane, stating his clients were anxious "to start discussions and to outline what we think are the principal points requiring discussion."

Mr. Bonner said points suggested in the letter were:

'Welcome Parley'

VANCOUVER (CU)—"We have been ready all along to negotiate. This is a step in the right direction and as such we welcome it," A. Bruce Robertson, chairman of B.C. Power Corp., said last night.

Builders Wait

Dam Pact Still In Doubt

VANCOUVER (CP)—A construction consortium is still awaiting assurance from the B.C. government that the $73,000,000 Peace River dam contract is valid.

The construction group, headed by Peter Kiewit Sons of Canada Ltd., delayed $10,000,000 in purchases of supply and equipment for the dam project after Chief Justice Sherwood Lett's Supreme Court judgment that the government's expropriation of the B.C. Electric in 1961 was ultra vires of the legislature and thus the formation of B.C. Hydro and Power Authority the following year was invalid.

CONTRACT LEGAL?

B.C. Hydro let the contract for the giant dam and the contractors are seeking clarification whether the contract is legal. Meanwhile, minor work is continuing at the dam site.

A spokesman for the consortium said he did not know why it is taking so long to settle the matter.

"The lawyers are working on it but there have been no official meetings between the group and the provincial government."

PLEDGE NOT BINDING

The consortium's lawyers are reported to have said letters from Premier Bennett assuring the contract would be honored were not binding on the government.

The spokesman said the consortium is taking the position that it has not a firm legal contract.

Pointers on Marx

THIS IS RUSSIA

—$35
A Day

By ALAN HARVEY
Fifth of a Series

TASHKENT, Soviet Union (CP)—For $35 a day try anything once tourists can pick up pointers on Marxism-Leninism while lounging on still-like wooden platforms built along a river bank in sweltering central Asia.

Or you can take the golden road to Samarkand, celebrated in James Elroy Flecker's poem, and visit mosques and mausoleums from emperor Tamerlane's time; listen to the sizzle of shashlik in a sort of Communist Coney Island in Tashkent; or see enough historic buildings in Leningrad to last a lifetime.

Whatever you do, watch for the unexpected. Tourism in the Soviet Union is young, raw and full of surprises. Don't boggle at beetles on bathroom floors, and don't fuss about frills.

Maybe that $35-a-day tariff for deluxe tourists sounds high, but it includes hotel, bath, guide and a car three hours daily.

The system is probably unique. To prevent you from drowning in the murky alphabet soup of a Russian language that turns familiar symbols on their heads, guides meet you at airport or station and steer you safely through the formalities.

Don't Panic

Don't panic if English or French leaves the porter cold. The big hotels have "service bureaus" staffed with multilingual experts. Long before your visit ends, you learn to lean heavily on the interpreters, though they're sometimes tucked away out of sight.

For one traveller, a memorable moment came in dialectical discussion with a dedicated young Marxist-trained guide, a dark-skinned Uzbek named Bacht Zafarov.

The setting was idyllic. With weeping willows forming a shield against the Asian sun, we reclined in slippers on a verandah-style platform jutting into the Bos-sa River near the Chkalov mountains.

These river-bank sanctuaries are called chathana, meaning "place for tea." They are cool, cosy and altogether delightful.

Stick Hair

Flicking back slick black hair over Oriental features and pouring strong green tea into porcelain mugs, Zafarov spoke passionately of the future Soviet paradise ("free transportation for all by 1970"), the unassailable ability of Marxist logic and what he called American "domination" of Canada.

Fellow tourist C. Paul Sanderson of Spokane, Wash., a finance company executive, replied that he personally would like to see Canada and the U.S. merged as one nation, bearing the name Canada if that would appease Canadian sensitivity. He defended American policies but Zafarov wouldn't yield an inch.

His responses seemed as spontaneous as studio laughter at a television show. "Either you mean this, or you mean that," he would say. "If you mean this, cite one specific case to prove it."

Train Loot: $7,575,300

LONDON (AP)—British accountants have totalled losses of £2,525,100 ($7,575,300) in the world's greatest train robbery. Rewards for arrest and conviction of the robbers soared Friday to more than £242,000 ($726,000).

Detectives swarmed through race track crowds and shady drinking spots looking for a splurge of underworld spending.

The loot was easily-spensible paper currency that banks were shipping to London for repulsing.

K in No Hurry for Summit

MOSCOW (Reuters-UPI)—U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk flew back here Friday night after 2½ hours of talks and a game of badminton with vacationing Premier Khrushchev at the sunny Black Sea resort of Gagra.

Western diplomats said Rusk found Khrushchev in no hurry to further ease cold war tensions.

They said that Khrushchev apparently does not want a summit meeting now or in the immediate future as an aftermath of the partial nuclear test ban treaty, nor does he want to push, for the time being at least, his desire for an East-West non-aggression pact.

To See Khrushchev

Rusk, 54, flew to Gagra Thursday to see Khrushchev, 69, following the signing in Moscow of the partial nuclear test ban treaty by the United States, Britain and Russia.

After playing with Rusk, Khrushchev then invited Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and the Russian ambassador to the United States, Anatoly Dobrynin, onto the badminton court.

Then Rusk played Dobrynin, then Alexei Adzhubei, Khrushchev's son-in-law and editor of the government newspaper Izvestia.

Khrushchev suggested the game of badminton, but the first two points in the game, played in a brightly-lit gymnasium, were won by Rusk. Then Khrushchev took the lead.

"I'm going to lose," Rusk laughed. "You play well."

"Practice," Khrushchev replied, grinning.

The ride would take 38 minutes. A trip between Vancouver and Victoria would take 1½ hours.

Canadians Arrested In Paris, Montreal

$3,000,000 DRUG HAUL

MONTREAL (CP)—The RCMP Friday announced the arrest of two Canadians in connection with the seizure in Paris of 13 pounds of heroin—with an underworld value of $2,000,000 to $3,000,000.

Police said it was the result of international co-operation by narcotics squads of Canada, the United States and France.

Two other Canadians were arrested in Paris, along with a wealthy Frenchman.

The Canadian arrests followed a series of raids on a dozen premises in both Quebec and Ontario.

Arrested in Canada were identified by Inspector J. R. Carriere of the RCMP as Roger LaPierre, 40, of Montreal and Anatole Ethier, 35, of Rockland, Ont.

NO DETAILS
Insp. Carriere said he had no details of the reported arrest in Paris of two Montreal men, Roger LaViolette, 40, and Alain Phaneuf, 30.

Reports from Paris said the two were arrested as they tried to embark by air for Montreal and that customs officers found a number of small plastic sacks of heroin under a false trunk-bottom.

WORLD MARKET
The wealthy Frenchman was identified in Paris as Roger Gaudet, alleged to have been a major supplier of narcotics to the world market.

Insp. Carriere placed the underworld value of the drugs, when added, at $2,000,000 to $3,000,000.

Marijuana Crop In Alberta

CALGARY (UPI)—Three New York citizens were charged Friday in connection with the growing of marijuana and illegal traffic in the drug.

RCMP said William Connaughton, 37, had been growing marijuana on a farm about 15 miles west of Cochrane, Alta. He pleaded guilty to charge.

Rosa and Jackson Burke pleaded guilty to a charge of being in possession of marijuana from the farm cultivated by Connaughton.

Silver Theft

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP)—A former employee of United Keno Hills Mines Limited at Elsa, Y.T., was arrested and charged with theft of ore Friday following a police investigation into a mysterious shipment of $200,000 in silver ore to an American smelter.

Gerald Henry Priest was arrested in Vancouver by RCMP and was scheduled to be returned to Whitehorse today.

The arrest capped a two-week investigation by RCMP launched after United Keno lodged a complaint in connection with the shipment of about 80 tons of ore.

IMPOUNDED

The ore now is impounded in two railway cars at the East Helena smelter at Helena, Mont. It arrived at the plant two weeks ago.

"At least part of the shipment comprised stolen ore," Inspector J. L. Vachon of the RCMP Whitehorse detachment said. "We're not certain yet how much, but our investigations have revealed some of the ore was stolen."

The American crew chief responsible, an army private, was in hospital suffering shock.

A U.S. Army spokesman said the helicopter shooting occurred Thursday when the crew chief was thrown off balance during a turn and the cord of his microphone caught in the trigger.

Notling will be replaced here by Henry Cabot Lodge, former U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

Three Firms Hovering

VANCOUVER (CP)—A British businessman says Vancouver and Nanaimo could be linked by a hovercraft service at a cost of $5 per fare.

The ride would take 38 minutes. A trip between Vancouver and Victoria would take 1½ hours.

The estimates were made

Friday by Stuart J. Miller, representative of Westland Aircraft Limited, who is making a feasibility study of proposed trans-gulf services.

He said in an interview that the Gulf of Georgia offers a superb medium for hovercraft operations, and three organizations are interested.

The hovercraft rides on a cushion of air and can travel over water or flat land. It is not to be confused with a hydrofoil, which rides above the water on retractable skis.

The recommended model for gulf service weighs 37½ tons, seats 130 passengers or 12 tons of freight, and cruises at 35 to 68 knots. The $5 estimate is based on a 60 per cent load factor.

Chlorine Blankets Blocks Sending 275 to Hospital

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Poisonous chlorine gas escaping from a railroad tank car blanketed a six-block area of thickly-populated northeast Philadelphia Friday, sending more than 275 persons to hospital for treatment.

A fire department spokesman said the accident "could have been a real disaster" but a team of masked firemen, using a kit of special tools known as a chlorine-cupping unit, sealed off the leak before the gas could reach fatal concentrations.

As it was, hundreds of persons were sickened.

YELLOW CLOUD

The leak occurred as the chlorine, stored as a liquid under pressure, was being transferred from an 80,000-gallon Pennsylvania Railroad tank car, to a vat in the Wonder Chemical Company. Bursting from a broken line, the chlorine turned into a thick yellow gas cloud, heavier than air. The train crew was the first to suffer from its effects.

Pushed by the wind, the yellow cloud spread northward across a public housing project, where several hundred children romped on the playground or swam in the pool.

Police said children and adults overcome by the gas were simply dropped where they were.

About three hours after the leak was capped, the cloud of gas dispersed. The fire department said the danger was over and the emergency units were being recalled.

Just two weeks ago, July 26, a faulty valve on a chlorine tank at a Reading, Pa., swimming pool sent 59 people to hospitals.

Double Tragedy Stalks Ceremony

DON TIN, South Viet Nam (AP)—Tragedy stalked ceremonies Friday which had been intended to send retiring U.S. Ambassador Frederick E. Nolting home amid a warm glow of friendship.

Nolting arrived from Saigon to find one of the jeeps in his official motorcade had run over and killed a three-year-old boy, and one of the three helicopters in his security escort had accidentally fired off a burst of machine gun bullets, killing a six-year-old boy and wounding five persons including the child's mother.

The American crew chief responsible, an army private, was in hospital suffering shock.

A U.S. Army spokesman said the helicopter shooting occurred Thursday when the crew chief was thrown off balance during a turn and the cord of his microphone caught in the trigger.

Baby's Rites Today

World Grieves With Kennedys

BOSTON (AP) — Tiny Patrick Bouvier Kennedy died Friday after only 30 hours and 12 minutes of life, and messages of sympathy poured in from all parts of the world for his parents, President and Mrs. John F. Kennedy.

Patrick's short life was a constant battle against an illness dreaded in premature babies.

MEMBRANE IN LUNG

He was born by caesarean section 5½ weeks before full term. He succumbed to hyaline membrane disease — a membrane formation in the lungs. Doctors explained the disease left a thin membrane in the infant's lungs which prevented oxygen from reaching the blood.

The third child of the president and his wife, Jacqueline, 34, died at 4:04 a.m. EDT. The president had been aroused from bed and stood nearby in Boston's Children's Medical Centre.

FIRED ALL GUNS

Dr. Leonard W. Cronkhite Jr., general director of the centre, said: "We fired all the guns there were to fire."

The president's close friend, Richard Cardinal Cushing, Archbishop of Boston, said: "He now lives in the nursery of the children of heaven."

Patrick was baptised shortly after birth, and the Catholic belief is that his soul will go directly to heaven.

MASS OF ANGELS

Cardinal Cushing will say a private "mass of the angels" in his chapel today at 10 a.m. The president will fly from Otis Air Force Base, where his wife is still in hospital, to attend the service.

Burial will be in Holyhood Cemetery, Brookline. A doctor told Mrs. Kennedy her youngest child had died. She then was given a mild sedative and slept until the president arrived.

WORDS OF SYMPATHY

Words of sympathy came from far-away places. From the Vatican, Pope Paul sent a private telegram of condolence. Prime Minister Pearson of Canada sent this message: "My wife and I are deeply distressed to learn of the death of your baby and we send our deepest condolences."

One-Third Of Nations Sign Pact

WASHINGTON (UPI) — About one-third of the nations of the world had their signatures Friday on a nuclear test ban treaty that raises hopes for reduction of cold war tensions and the danger of nuclear war.

"It would be a tragedy if the hopes raised by this beginning were destroyed by evasions of the treaty," Ambassador Miguel Ribeiro of Ghana said as he signed a copy of the treaty in Washington.

Nearly 40 countries signed here Wednesday and Friday. Most of them also signed other copies of the original American-British-Russian agreement in similar ceremonies in London and Moscow.

More than 60 nations have indicated they will sign here.

Fort Held Out Invasion Died

Republican Pushes Civil Rights

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A Republican senator asked Congress Friday to adopt a sweeping public accommodations bill that would guarantee Negro access to every private establishment catering to the public.

Sen. Winston Prouty, R-Vt., introduced his measure based on the 14th amendment providing equal treatment under the law, and on the 13th amendment abolishing slavery.

KENNEDY APPEAL
At the same time Attorney General Robert Kennedy appealed to three congressional committees to avoid the 14th amendment approach as the sole basis for a public accommodations bill. To do so, he warned in a memorandum, would "jeopardize civil rights by taking an unnecessary risk of unconstitutionality."

Kennedy noted that the Supreme Court overruled civil rights legislation in 1883 because it appeared only on the 14th amendment. The court interpreted the amendment to apply only to state actions, not to any private discrimination.

Unlike the administration bill the Prouty proposal would not exempt the corner drugstore or lunch counter just because it does not cater to the travelling public.

EQUAL PROTECTION
Prouty's bill was based on a section of the 14th amendment which gives primacy to national citizenship over state citizenship and provides equal protection under the law.

The administration bill, based primarily on the commerce clause, provides that an establishment would have to have a "substantial impact" on interstate commerce before it would be affected.

Earlier, Sen. Kenneth Keating, (R-N.Y.), introduced an amendment calling for a mandatory cut-off of funds to federal programs involving discrimination. The president has asked congress only for discretionary authority to withhold federal funds in such cases.

CAP HAITIEN (UPI)—An unsuccessful attack on the Fort Liberté garrison last Monday apparently broke the back of an attempt by 150 rebels to overthrow the regime of Haitian Premier Francois Duvalier.

That was the story of the abortive invasion as pieced together by resident Americans and other sources in the "war zone."

Foreign newsmen were permitted to fly over the zone Friday but were not allowed to travel through it by car. All appears quiet.

INVASION STORY
The Haitian government claimed all of the invaders fled to the Dominican republic with the exception of one who was killed in fighting and two who were captured.

This invasion story was patched together:

The invaders, possibly led by Gen. Leon Cantave, former chief of staff of the Haitian army, and Col. Rene Leon invaded Haiti by boat across the Massacre River before dawn Monday, seized the town of Ouanaminthe without firing a shot, then swept across the plantation at Maribaroux to take the village of Derae.

KILL SECRET POLICE

At Derae and Maribaroux, 12 to 18 government informers, believed to be members of Duvalier's dread Ton Ton Macoute (bogymen) secret police, were seized and summarily executed.

The invaders then headed for the 60-men Fort Liberté garrison, but withdrew after an hour's rifle and grenade battle. The rebels held Ouanaminthe, Maribaroux and Derae all day Monday and most of Monday night before the Fort Liberté attack failed and they fled across the border into the Dominican republic.

Relief in Sight?

THE RECENTLY-PUBLISHED British Columbia Financial and Economic Review with its colored photographs of provincial scenery and activities relieving the dull monotony of its customary charts and accounts, also gives a thought-provoking list of the taxes which the people of British Columbia have to pay into the provincial exchequer.

The newcomer a year ago was provincial income tax. This year the addition is the much-criticized provincial inheritance tax.

The taxes now collected by the B.C. finance department are:

Income tax at the rate of nine per cent of net income to individuals and 17 per cent of federal tax to corporations.

Inheritance tax from two to 32 per cent on the estate and from one to 25 per cent on the beneficiary.

Probate fees run from a minimum of $10 to $3 per thousand after $5,000.

The sales tax is levied on all retail sales with certain exemptions at the rate of five per cent.

There is a tax of 13 cents a gallon on gasoline for use on public roads and one cent a gallon on gasoline for other purposes.

Commercial vehicles pay 15 cents a gallon on fuel other than gasoline used for motive power.

There is an impost of half a cent a gallon on fuel oils.

Under the race meeting regulations the government takes 12 per cent of the total pari-mutuel betting pool.

The logging tax act takes 10 per cent of the net income over $25,000 a year from logging operators; and there is a similar 10 per cent tax on mining operations.

There is also a two per cent tax on insurance premiums, with certain exemptions, and under the Fire Marshal Act there is a one per cent charge on premium income for fire hazard less reinsurance.

Finally and perhaps most important of all is the provincial tax on real property in which the assessment is 50 per cent of current land and improvement actual values in unorganized territories.

Last year the finance department added it all up and found it had received $227,882,561 from the public in general taxes, and another $92,130,000 from privileges, car and game licences and natural resources taxes or royalties.

Maybe we get good value, but we must wonder "where does it all end?"

Fortunately during the past year the province showed an unexpectedly large surplus. If this trend continues, as apparently it is doing, perhaps it is not too much to hope that for the embattled taxpayers, some relief from the province, at least, may be in sight.

Cutting the Lifeline

AT THE SPRING conference of the Pacific Northwest Trade Association the theme of a free trade area for the United States and Canada aroused much interest among members from both sides of the border. Speakers dwelt on many aspects of the problem, and one was provocative enough to suggest there should be political as well as economic union between the two countries.

In view of the European Common Market and the new U.S. Trade Expansion Act, the PNTA delegates decided that the subject was so important that it should not only do further exploration work, but should also attempt to find out how a closer trading relationship between the two countries can be practically effected.

As a result the September conference of the association at Harrison Hot Springs is being devoted to the theme "Steps towards freer trade."

As north-south trading is geographically favorable to business and industry in western Canada generally, and in the Pacific Northwest particularly, it is not surprising that the members of the PNTA should have strong personal feelings for such freedom.

At the same time, it is impossible to forget that even under present tariff barriers Canada is buying at the rate of $4,000,000,000 a year from the U.S. while the U.S. is buying only $3,000,000,000 a year from us.

If freer trade created a larger deficiency in this balance of payments against Canada, this country's economic position could be quickly worsened.

Indeed it is only by the purchase of Canadian stocks and bonds in recent years that Canada has been able to preserve the value of the Canadian dollar in foreign exchange. As President Kennedy is taxing U.S. investment in outstanding Canadian securities, he is threatening to throw Canada into a new dollar crisis.

It might be wrong to say that Mr. Kennedy's tax on Canadian securities has done something to wreck the theme of next month's PNTA conference. But it must be quite obvious to those attending that it has not helped the association to find sound methods of lowering the barriers to commodity trading between the two countries when the president at the same time is cutting the economic life-line by taxing the sale of Canadian securities in the United States.

"Falling from looking doesn't bother me, but if we vote against the test ban treaty, the political fallout next year could hit me."

"My wife thinks that's ever so romantic."

War of Nerves?

India's Frontier Fears

By JAMES MITCHELL
from New Delhi

WILL this autumn—or summer—see another Chinese thrust through the Himalayan passes into the rich tea gardens and oilfields of Assam? This is the question Indians are anxiously debating as new reports come in daily of massive Chinese concentrations at their northern border.

Under the November 21 demilitarization plan—which India could not but accept—Chinese troops went back 12 miles from the McMahon Line in the North-East Frontier Agency and the same distance from the line of actual control in the middle and western sectors. The withdrawal restored more or less the normal situation in the eastern sector of the border but left some 14,000 square miles of Ladakh in Chinese hands. The general impression at the time was that the NEFA offensive had served as a diversion and that the real territorial aim of the Chinese had always been the Aksai Chin plateau in Ladakh, where, some years before, they had—unknown to the Indians—built a road linking Tibet and Sinkiang.

The December plan of the six Colombo Powers (Ceylon, Burma, Cambodia, Egypt, Ghana and Indonesia) who wanted Peking and Delhi to start negotiating a settlement offered India two important improvements in its position. According to the proposals, the Indians would have been allowed to reoccupy militarily the 12-mile zone on their side of the McMahon Line and to put up in Ladakh civilian check posts alongside those established by the Chinese in the demilitarized corridor.

Peking, however, having refused to accept these two points, Mr. Nehru has consistently opposed any talks as long as the Chinese would not accept the Colombo Plan in toto.

The ensuing period of stalemate has been used by the Indians to reorganize a defence system which had been totally inadequate before the Chinese assault. To obtain the necessary equipment the Delhi government has turned its eyes toward the U.S. and Britain. The recently concluded "air agreement" with Washington

London does not give the Indians the superb jet fighters which they requested. Despite understandable efforts to present such a policy as consistent with the "sacred principle" of non-alignment, the agreement is in fact a warning to the Chinese that in case of a new attack the British and American air forces are likely to intervene on India's side.

Considering the necessity of getting assistance from the West—and also the attempt to obtain more military equipment from the Soviet Union—the present insistence on a renewed Chinese threat may not be unhelpful for the carrying out of Indian policies. But even if there is a tendency in Delhi to "play up" the fear of an attack, this does not alter the fact that the Chinese are evidently adding some military weight to the diplomatic pressure they have been exerting until now.

A fairly widespread feeling in Indian political circles is that Peking might want to reoccupy part or the whole of the demilitarized zone in the hope that India would then agree to negotiate a border settlement which—whatever its possible compensations—would certainly entail the legal transfer of Aksai Chin to the Chinese.

For the moment, at least, most observers here still tend to think that large-scale military operations are unlikely in the immediate future if only because the monsoon period is most unfavorable. The Chinese government seems much more bent on a "litter campaign" in which the Pakistani leaders are giving a hand.

Washington Calling

Cutting the Overkill

By MARQUIS CHILDS

WHEN the NATO ambassadors were taken on a tour of defence installations following the meeting of the NATO council in Ottawa, they were impressed most of all by the Strategic Air Command centre at Omaha. Here was a sense of fantastic power that could be unleashed from the subterranean control centre once the signal had come from the White House.

But they reported on incident that bears on a challenge rapidly taking shape here today. The NATO officials were briefed by blunt, tough-spoken Gen. Thomas S. Power, commander of SAC. When question time came, one of the ambassadors asked about overkill—the capacity of the American nuclear arsenal to destroy Soviet Russia many times over.

"Overkill!" the general exclaimed as the ambassadors told the story later. "Anybody who asks about overkill must have a screw loose somewhere."

There was embarrassed silence. Only a few days before, Lord Home, the British foreign minister, had delivered behind closed doors at Ottawa a lengthy warning on the peril of piling more and more overkill capacity. Each weapon that is added to the mountain of nuclear arms increases the chances that one of them will be accidentally fired.

Overkill, together with a $33.6 billion U.S. defence budget, which does not include appropriations for the Atomic Energy Commission, has been projected into the Washington arena. Sen. George McGovern

(D-S.D.) started it with a speech that began by recalling his own experience on 35 missions as a B-24 bomber pilot. He proposed a $3 billion cut in defence and AEC appropriations. He is being followed by Sen. Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin and perhaps by other junior senators in the movement.

The presentation of Prof. Seymour Melman of Columbia University, a disarmament specialist, Melman has been arguing the case for cutting back the overkill.

McGovern said that some of the billions going into defence should be spent to build up America's schools, attack the slums and give vocational training to the unemployed. This has the appeal of logic to those who believe America's strength lies not alone in weapons but in a confident people showing they are able to solve their own internal problems.

But it ignores the condition of Congress today and the long traffic jam of legislation meant to deal with such things as slum rebuilding, long-term unemployment, the decline of the educational system. When he has been asked about proposed cuts in the space budget, President Kennedy has replied by saying in almost too many words that if spending on space is reduced, the money will not go for education and the other purposes that seem desirable to a majority of members of Congress. Therefore, it is better to spend on space, which provides many incidental benefits than not to spend at all.

The same argument can be made, taking into account the big payrolls that depend on defence contracts, against cutting back the defence budget. This has been one reason for what has been an almost knee-jerk reaction to requests from the Pentagon for more and more billions.

If, however, there is ahead a real chance to ease up the arms race, that answer will not satisfy men like McGovern. They will want to prove that Congress is not stuck on the fence centre of $30 billion defence budgets, with each section of the country clamoring for contracts. And that gets down to the reforms of the congressional system as long ignored.

Sen. Clifford Case (R.-N.J.) has put in a bill proposing sweeping reforms. One would require action on proposals sent by the president within a fixed period of time—an effort to prevent the stalling by which a committee chairman can hold up legislation indefinitely.

It is not too hard, Congress is discovering, to whack away at the space budget as doubts arise about 1970. Defence bills may become equally vulnerable with a slight twist in the cold war atmosphere.

But even critics of overkill and huge military budgets will see that the axe is hardly the proper instrument if we are to scale back to a more moderate level. By using an axe and taking no account of the need for positive government intervention in moving from the age of overkill, the economy can be hit, with another recession brought on.

The Pay Boost

By RICHARD JACKSON
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

BY this time, the honorable members of the Commons should have been back among the home folks long enough to be getting the political daylights scared out of them over that $18,000-plus salary grab.

Some of them were so worried about the $8,000 pay boost—it's more, much more, since $8,000 of it is tax-free—that they haven't had the nerve to head straight home and face the taxpayers' music, but instead, have sneaked off on holidays, hoping the folks will forget and forgive.

Others, in advance of the home-coming, put out plaintive statements for home town consumption—none of them very convincing—that they really didn't want that $18,000, but just strung along with the rest of the fellows, when they would have been more satisfied with a mere $16,000.

It was almost heart-breaking to see them wrestling with their consciences—and losing—and then suffering all kinds of ulcer-inducing worries over what the poor, long-suffering taxpayers might think, and, even worse, do about it, come the next election.

Some of them will try to tell you they didn't really mean it. They'll plead that they voted themselves, what amounted to a 400 per cent pay increase over what they were getting only nine years ago, with the greatest reluctance. Don't you believe them! They knew what they wanted, what they were getting, how to get it, and they could scarcely wait.

They were in such a great hurry that they embarrassed even elephant-headed State Secretary Jack Pickersgill, which was quite a trick, because he doesn't blush easily.

They were putting through the bill even before the Commons pageboys had distributed copies to every honorable member.

They had passed the motion on that unabashed 200 to 10 vote in less than 90 minutes and raced on to a clause-by-clause "examination"—it took another 90 minutes—of the bill.

"Shall Clause One carry?" asked the House chairman. "Carried," they sang out happily.

"Better wait," cautioned the embarrassed House Leader Pickersgill as they drew breath to "carry" Clause Two. "Better wait till we get copies of the bill before hurrying along too quickly."

So they slowed down to the fastest gallop of the session. They had been six weeks on the budget and still hadn't finished that—but it took only one of an afternoon and a portion of the evening to ram-jam through that raise.

As one old age pensioner wrote one of the opposition leaders:

"Just because members of Parliament hold the keys to the national treasury, they're not really required to rob it."

And the day they rushed the raise through, they acted almost as if they were robbing the treasury.

They were all very self-conscious, acutely aware of the gal-eries being packed with visitors—mostly tourists and taxpayers from all across the land—listening, fascinated by how quickly and quietly the Commons could get down to business when it wanted.

Almost like burglars in a bank—or small boys caught with their hands in the cookie jar—there they sat, nervous, still as mice. The House seldom has been that quiet.

An awful lot was at stake. As that down-to-earth politician, Ottawa's plain-spoken, clear-sighted Mayor Charlotte Whitton said, this particular Parliament was taking out a $3,000,000 insurance policy on its own life.

Because drawing down money like that—$45,000 for the prime minister, $35,000 for the cabinet members and the official opposition leader, $22,000 for parliamentary secretaries and the two splinter party chiefs, and $18,000 for the MPs—who was going to combine to pool the necessary and always available votes to overthrow the government and bring on an election?

They wouldn't vote out the government before, and you can bet your last nickel of income tax that there won't be an election until the very last minute runs out on the government's five-year term time clock.

What does it mean for an average MP in addition to that $18,000, plus free phones, free telegraphs, free air travel and you—name—the extra-fringe benefits—they have it?

Just this: You're a bright young man, or woman. Say maybe 25. People have made Parliament at that age before. Tom Bell, the former Conservative "Boy Wonder" from Saint John, was one.

You're in at 25 and you stick for only 15 years.

By the time you're 40 life begins for the retired young MP you will have collected $270,000 in pay and perquisites, paid $10,000 of it into the parliamentary pension fund, and be able to put yourself out to pasture on $1,500 a year for the rest of your life.

Love those ever-generous taxpayers! They'll be putting up the yearly $4,500 for you, a nice comfortable financial cushion, a sure income, a kind of "thank you" bonus you'll be drawing while you go back to work in private enterprise, or simply loaf the years away as you wish.

And don't believe all those hard-times stories many of the MPs have been telling. Sure, some of them had a tight time on the $10,000 they previously were getting. But for others, it was just spending, or even tip money. For the Commons is not without its wealthy men; a millionaire has been no collector's item. It is largely monopolized by lawyers, western grain men, and other professionals who never have been known to be exactly starving to death.

Remember the time, nine years ago, when Leo Gauthier, former Liberal MP for the Nickel Belt, shouted in great after "Where, I'm a $10,000-a-year-man-now!" the last time Parliament raised its own pay? Leo would feel a little underprivileged these days among the current crop of plush, flush parliamentarians.

NDP Position

YOUR editorial, "The NDP Forgets," in which you caution the New Democrats to "stick to facts" and place the B.C. Electric issue "above politics," has two main ingredients: one, a complete ignorance of what takes place in the legislature and, two, an obvious desire to misrepresent the New Democrats' position.

Alex Macdonald, M.L.A. for Vancouver East, is not the New Democratic Party's "economic expert," Robert Sirachan, the leader of the Opposition, is the spokesman on finance in the legislature.

The New Democrats did not approve the Soerod method of takeover. If we "stick to the facts," the New Democrats put forward an amendment to the takeover act which would have allowed for democratic negotiation and a right of appeal. A vote was called and recorded in the Journals of the House, the amendment, being defeated 38 to 19.

In your anxiety to jump to the defence of your fallen Soerod idol, it is the Colonist which "forgets" that once upon a time it stood for private enterprise power...

The New Democrats have always stood for the takeover of all public utilities by the democratic method, an opposed to the Communist method of "consolidation" used by Social Credit and supported in Colonialist editorials.

(Mrs.) RUTH JOHNSON, 128 Robertson Street.

Intent Stands

In the case of the BCE expropriation, the intent of the legislature is clear and while the acts involved may be set aside—the intent stands!

Intent to do or not to do has a legal aspect (as many can testify) and as such is a matter for consideration.

The fact that the BCE funds

And no long as the intent remains it is submitted that the will of the people would (eventually) prevail, subject to such further amendment as and if necessary to establish the fact of the intent (to possess). A right which cannot be abrogated under our system of government.

Disgusted

In England we have an expression unknown by all—the "gutter press." Its name describes it. However it must have a certain following otherwise I suppose it wouldn't exist.

As an Englishwoman living in Canada who has adopted Canada to the extent of becoming a Canadian citizen (officially so) it disgusts me—as I feel and hope that it must disgust others—to observe the depths to which our local paper, The Daily Colonist, descended on Aug. 1, in reprinting the cartoon, occupying a large space in the middle of the editorial page—a typical example of "the gutter press."

Promise Still Promise

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP)—The Liberal government is giving second thoughts to its pledge to introduce a minimum $2-per-bushel price for wheat.

An informant says that all of the government's agriculture policies are under review and that another plan of encouragement and stability for western wheat farmers may be produced.

PLEDGE REMAINS

But a Liberal party source insists the $2 wheat promise is not being dropped. It remains a party pledge, but is being postponed pending other developments.

The review of agriculture policy, undertaken by Prime Minister Pearson, Trade Minister Sharp and Agriculture Minister Hays, with the advice of government officials on technical questions, probably will produce some decisions for Parliament to chew on when the session resumes Sept. 30.

Two factors have persuaded the government to review its 1963 election promise.

One is that the promise did nothing to swing western farmers into the Liberal camp in the April 8 general election. They voted overwhelmingly Conservative.

GREAT CHANGES

The other is that—as one authority put it—"there have been great changes in the world wheat markets since the election campaign." Farmers have planted their second biggest crop in history, and there is a distinct possibility of a bumper crop putting Canada back into the big-surplus position it was in a few years ago.

The Liberal promise was to "maintain a minimum price for wheat of $2 per bushel for No. 1 northern at Lakehead, on all sales made under the current international wheat agreement and on all domestic sales."

CONSUME SUBSIDY

"If the $2 price is above the world level, the deficiency payment to farmers in respect of domestic sales of wheat will be treated as a consumer subsidy."

In other words, the Liberals undertook to pay the farmers a subsidy on wheat used for domestic consumption which would bring their average prices to $2 a bushel, even if wheat couldn't be sold abroad under the IWA for $2.

It wasn't intended, a source said, that this pledge should be implemented in the government's first 60 days of decision.

Dentists Plan To Appeal B.C. Order

VANCOUVER (CP)—The College of Dental Surgeons has applied to the Supreme Court to have a provincial cabinet order-in-council declared ultra vires, claiming that the cabinet made illegal changes in rules intended to govern B.C. dentists.

The college said three sections of regulations submitted to the cabinet in June to be made law under the Dentistry Act were omitted. College counsel W. J. Wallace said the cabinet has power only to accept or reject the college's set of rules, not to amend them.

The omitted rules would have required dentists to sell patients only dentures made by dental technicians and would have set up regulations governing procedure when a patient decides not to buy his teeth through the dentist, but directly from a mechanic.

Mr. Wallace and college president Dr. Wesley Munie said they do not know why the cabinet omitted the rules.

OTTAWA (CP)—Social Credit followers in Quebec are exploring the possibility of plunging into provincial politics.

Still smarting over Premier Jean Lesage's intervention in the April 8 federal election, the Creditistes are expected to approve some form of Social Credit participation in provincial affairs at their annual meeting late this month.

More than 2,000 voting delegates have been invited to the convention, scheduled for Aug. 31 and Sept. 1 at the College Mounseigneur Prince in Granby, 50 miles east of Montreal.

Dollard Richard, secretary of Le Ralliement des Creditistes, said in an interview that many constituency associations have sent in resolutions calling for Stephen Wyman-Roberts, leader of the 13-man British team, came out of the cave Friday after 10 days underground.

Party Line Can Vary

NDP Opens Door To Quebec Wing

By KEN KELLY

REGINA (CP)—The New Democratic Party wound up its second national convention Friday night by paving the way with constitutional amendments for continued relations between the federal party and NDP-oriented groups in Quebec.

A key constitutional change requested by Quebec delegates removed a constitutional provision that provincial affiliates of the federal party must have a program that is in line with the party's federal program.

B.C. Opposition

The move was opposed by a number of British Columbia delegates who argued there was a danger of a provincial affiliate adopting a program which would conflict with the party's federal program.

The consequence, they said, was that the party might find itself saying one thing in one part of Canada and another in a different part.

Michael Oliver of Montreal, outgoing president, argued that the federal party does not now insist that provincial affiliates adopt policies precisely the same as those of the federal party. The change just recognized that fact.

Vital Move

Mr. Oliver said Quebec regards the constitutional amendments as vital. The situation where the federal party could, in effect, act as a sort of censor of provincial programs was unacceptable to Quebec residents.

The constitutional changes, mostly along the lines of spelling out the autonomous status of provincial affiliates, may remove the barriers to affiliation with the NDP by the newly-formed Quebec Socialist Party.

HERBAL OINTMENT

The QSP, which includes a number of men active in efforts to form a Quebec New Democratic Party was formed several weeks ago to participate in federal politics.

In the final minutes of the convention, the delegates also unanimously endorsed an emergency resolution sponsored by Robert Strachan, NDP leader in B.C., and H.W. Herridge, MP for Kootenay West, declaring unalterable opposition to the "sellout plan" for Columbia River power development embodied in Canada-United States development treaty.

Oppose Power Pact

The convention also adopted resolutions calling for:

1. National Housing Act loans for existing dwellings and a special low-rental housing program for senior citizens, with rentals of no more than one-fifth of the occupants' income.

Fallout Action

2. Federal and provincial governments to provide better measurements of radio-active fallout, inform the public fully of fallout hazards and require removal of radio-active contamination from foods where possible.

3. A health and welfare policy by governments aimed at providing employment, rehabilitation and self-help for the unemployed, disabled and needy rather than merely giving them handouts.

4. Old age pensions related to the cost of living.

5. Full employment by ensuring that anyone willing and able to work would have a job or get one "in a short time."

B.C. TEL closed circuit television SCORES AGAIN - This time in FOOTBALL

The hooded TV set that stands by the Lions bench at Empire Stadium is not for entertainment!

Through this TV monitor (and the TV camera mounted on the roof of the East stand) the Lions coaching staff receive a "birds-eye" view of the struggles on the gridiron. The coach is in constant contact with the cameraman on the roof and instructs him on what formation to follow. Thus the coach gets an aerial observation of the battle - by closed-circuit TV.

This installation is a typical example of the versatility of B.C. TEL's closed-circuit television. Its modest cost puts it within reach of any business.

Win, Three Draws For City Cricketers

VANCOUVER (Special)—Victoria was the only unbeaten team in a four-team cricket tournament here this week. B.C.'s Cricket Festival.

The Victoria team had one win and three draws.

Thursday, Victoria defeated Vancouver. The mainlanders were all out for 127 and Victoria scored 124 for five wickets when stumps were drawn.

Percy Barradell, 24, Bob Parish, 26, Ron McGregor, 19, and R. Singh, 13, led the Victoria batsmen. Parish took four wickets for 33 runs and Gerry Bateman took three for 21.

Parish and Peter Clarke are on B.C.'s representative side for further matches this weekend.

Argos Beat Ottawa

Parker's Pass Winner

TORONTO (CP) — Jackie Parker, making his debut as Toronto Argonauts quarterback, passed to halfback Dick Shatto for a touchdown late in the fourth quarter as the Argos came from behind Friday night to defeat Ottawa Rough Riders 9-5 in the opening game of the Eastern Football Conference season.

The forward pass, on a play that started from the Ottawa six-yard line, broke open a tight defensive game in which there was seldom a sustained attack by either team.

The best Ottawa could do was two singles, one on a wide field goal attempt by Moe Racine, the other on a punt by Rick Quinn was fouled after his field goal attempt.

A crowd of 27,557 saw the 31-year-old Parker, who was acquired by the Argos from Edmonton Eskimos in a big off-season trade, go the whole way at quarterback.

He directed an attack that didn't particularly distinguish itself as Toronto gained only 167 yards rushing and 112 yards on nine completed passes in 22 Parker tries.

The Rough Riders, with Canadian Russ Jackson at quarterback, weren't much more successful, running an attack that gained only 61 yards on the ground. He completed 12 passes in 20 attempts for 217 yards but was never able to get his club into position for a touchdown threat.

The turning point was a roughing — the — kicker penalty against Ottawa on a Dave Mann punt from the Argos 35.

The 15-yard penalty, with a little more than five minutes left in the game, moved the Argos to their own 50 where they had a first down.

Plunges by fullback Larry Hickman and a 25-yard run by Shatto got the Argos moving and a Parker-to-Shatto pass was good for five yards to the six-yard line. From there Shatto deftly wide to the left, caught Parker's pass and fell into the end zone for the winning touchdown.

Parker, who threw twice to end A. D. Williams for 36 yards and three times to Shatto for 23, had difficulty finding receivers and had to eat the ball on several occasions.

BOOS AND YELLS
A scattering of boos and yells of "We want Fuell" (second-string quarterback Don Fuell) greeted some inept offensive work by the Argos in the second half.

Parker, whose running is counted on by the Argos to give them a better balanced attack after several seasons of emphasis on passing, carried the ball only three times and netted two yards.

Wild Chase Ends in $150 Fine

A wild chase through city streets early yesterday led to a charge of dangerous driving and a $150 fine for 19-year-old millworker Garfield Hemeon, 3251 Alder, in city magistrate's court yesterday.

The chase began when the accused's car went through a stop sign on David Street and all but caused a smash-up with a police plover car driven by Const. Murray MacArthur. He estimated Hemeon's speed at between 50 and 55.

Const. MacArthur pursued the speeding car along David to Pleasant to Bay Street where he went through another stop sign; across Point Ellice Bridge onto Skinner where Hemeon nearly hit an oncoming car. He was finally pulled down on Alston nearly a mile from the point where the chase started.

Const. MacArthur told the court he had his red light and siren going throughout the chase.

Hemeon was fined $150 and forbidden to drive anywhere in Canada for one year.

Charged with contributing to juvenile delinquency Benjamin Stymiest, CGS Ottawa, was fined $100 and put on a $250 good behavior bond.

In passing sentence the magistrate commented favorably on the accused's efforts to rehabilitate himself from a previous bad record of alcohol and theft.

Thief of a lighter from a downtown store last week brought about a sentence of nine months definite and four months indefinite for John Jack Marynavitch, 1320 Gladstone. He was charged with theft under $50.

Magistrate Ostler commented that the accused had spent most of the last few years in institutions. "Do you wish to spend the rest of your life in institutions?" he asked. He advised Marynavitch to take advantage of the training facilities offered at Haney.

Harvey Moran, 420 Hillside, was sentenced to six months on a charge of possession of stolen goods. Moran's problem was alcohol and the magistrate said, "You won't seem to make an effort to overcome this wretched affliction," he told Moran.

He pointed out the accused had a loyal wife and a large family and advised him to straighten out during his jail term so he could be of some use to his family in future. Moran was found in possession of cheques, a proteco-graph machine and unemployment insurance books and stamps that were stolen from Midland Construction, 728 Herald.

Appearing on a charge of passing a bad cheque Donald Schultz, no fixed address, altered his previous plea to guilty then added guilty pleas to three more bad cheque charges.

Court was told Schultz uttered false cheque for $33.13, $150.00, $125.30 and $30.35. Cheques were all cashed at Victoria supermarkets.

Prosecutor Thomas Birkett read Schultz's record which included charges of uttering false documents as far back as 1960.

Magistrate Ostler said Schultz appeared in Saanich court on the previous day on two similar charges.

"At that time the Saanich prosecutor knew of no record as it was probably not available.

"I ordered a probation report but I don't think in the circumstances a probation report is required, he said. Schultz will be sentenced today.

General Motors Products of Canada, Limited, Oshawa, Ontario.

Dear Sirs:

Our business demands 24 hour-a-day service to plants, schools, motels, homes and construction sites within a 75-mile radius of Kingston. To do the job, we need trucks that are powerful, dependable and economical. That is why we have chosen Chevrolet Trucks.

Our four Chevrolet Trucks travel about 16,000 miles a year each and spend at least half of their working lives on concession and unpaved private roads. They haul maximum loads most of the time and have to face some steep grades as well. Chevrolet's power and performance under these demanding conditions have been outstanding. Maintenance costs have also been very low, and no matter where we go in our operating area, parts and service are always easily available. The power, dependability and economy of our Chevrolet Trucks are vital to our business. We will continue to put our confidence in Chevrolet, because from our own experience, we know that Chevrolet Trucks can handle the toughest jobs.

Yours very truly,

Garnet W. Allen

Exquisite Glads, Dahlias

Show's 600 Entries Make Riot of Color

About 600 entries from the 50 members of the Victoria Gladiolus and Dahlia Society provided a display of exquisite blooms and a riot of color on the opening day of the 17th Annual Show yesterday.

Show officials were enthusiastic and claimed this year's display as the best in the show's history.

"The inclusion of dahlias for the first time this year has proved so popular that it will probably remain this way in future years," said Mrs. B. A. Setchell, secretary-treasurer.

"The entries this year are the best selection we have ever had," she said.

The Island Gladiolus Gardens Trophy went to W. A. Kemper with the grand champion spike in the gladiolus section, and Cosmopolitan Cup to Mrs. Arthur Turner with the reserve champion spike.

President's Cup also went to Mrs. Turner for the best spike exhibited by a woman.

U.S. Won't Dilute Tax Exemptions

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Gordon said Thursday the U.S. administration will not water down Canada's exemptions from the proposed new U.S. tax on foreign security purchases.

He said he had been assured by U.S. Treasury Secretary Dillon that exemption will include purchases of Canadian mortgages and private placements (new securities) as well as Canadian securities listed with the Securities Exchange Commission.

'Don't Interfere' In-Laws Ordered

CHICAGO — Judge Charles R. Barrett thinks interfering in-laws cause half of all domestic breakups, and when bride Sandra Lee Pearson, 21, appeared in court to ask temporary support pending divorce action, he decided to do something about it.

The judge ordered the parents of Sandra and husband Richard Pearson Jr., 33, of Lyons to leave the couple alone for 90 days. Pearson's attorney said Sandra's parents had ordered her not to clean house, cook meals, dress or do anything without their consent. Sandra and Richard left the courtroom arm in arm.

NEW YORK — Father Francis McShane, 42, of Elmford, N.Y., was found by his brother Vincent, also a priest, stabbed to death in the bedroom closet of his sister's Manhattan home. The sister is visiting in Ireland. A witness said she saw the priest enter the house with a man who later left alone.

WINDSOR, Ont. — George Bulman, George Cherasim, John Christensen and George Spolia have issued a writ of summons demanding Bishop Teofil Ionescu, of Detroit, Mich., and their pastor, Rev. Newellian Cleas, show cause for the expulsion of the four from the congregation of St. George's Romanian Orthodox Church.

WASHINGTON — The office of Senator Estes Kefauver ver (Dem.-Tenn.) said he has suffered a "mild heart attack" and is in the U.S. Naval Hospital in nearby Bethesda, Md.

LLANUDONO — Thousands of holidaymakers in this seaside resort turned out to cheer Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip at the start of their two-day official visit to north Wales.

LONDON — The Duke of Argyll, who divorced his wife in May for adultery, was secretly married eight weeks ago to American-born Mathilde Custer Merthimer, friends disclosed. The bride, 40, is the duke's fourth wife. She has three sons by a previous marriage.

CARTHAGE, Miss. — Circuit Judge O. A. Barnett ordered Byron De La Beckwith, charged with slaying integration leader Medgar Evers, released from a mental hospital and transferred to jail to await trial for the murder.

SAN FRANCISCO — Frederick Cromwell, former U.S. government official and son of a one-time chairman of the New York Stock Exchange, is suing the exclusive University Club of San Francisco for $100,000 because, he charged, the club let him have a drink in August, 1962, knowing he had "a medical and psychological ailment" that caused him to lose all control. He said he broke his pelvis in a fall and became a permanent invalid. He is also suing Mount Zion Hospital and three doctors for alleged negligence in treating him.

WINNIPEG — Helen Louise Bandal, former B.C. registrar of nurses, died here. She was 91.

Morning's Work

Killer B.C. Oil Well Tamed by Red Adair

FORT ST. JOHN, B.C. (CP) — Red Adair, famed oil well firefighter, tamed a killer — blaze 61 miles northeast of Fort St. John Friday and immediately looked forward to a holiday.

Adair, 47, of Houston, Texas, brought under control a fire feeding on 250,000 cubic feet of natural gas a day. Thirty minutes after he extinguished the flames with mud and water he capped the well.

"I'm happy it's out," he said. "Now I think I'll take a holiday."

Natural gas began leaking from the well Wednesday morning. Without warning it ignited. The explosion killed Tony Guay, 16, of Dawson Creek, B.C., and seriously injured four others.

SEA OF MUD

Adair was summoned from an oil well fire in Mexico. Heavy rain Thursday night turned a 38-mile bush road into a sea of mud. Tractors, trucks and other equipment requested by Adair became stuck.

CLEAR DEBRIS

Using improvised facilities, Adair cleared the well head area of debris — a derrick toppled early Friday morning — and set to work.

He and his men were successful about 1 p.m. MST, using two streams of mud and water.

Playing Cop Gets Robbers

TORONTO (UPI) — A Toronto man apprehended three would-be robbers Friday on the pretence that he was a policeman.

Klaus Kilen was strolling along Church Street when he saw the trio emerging from a smoke shop they had broken into.

He followed, yelling "police, police," hoping a constable would hear his shouts.

However, the three mistook his intentions and thought he was a policeman. They stopped running and Kilen, realising the bluff, escorted them to a phone booth where he summoned a real officer of the law.

George Reid, 17, and Ronald Brown, 19, were each fined $150 after pleading guilty to a charge of malicious damage. Albert Shipley, 21, was fined $50 on the same count.

'All Good Citizens Of Birch Stripe'

By JURGEN NESSE

All Negro demonstrations in the United States are Communist-inspired, says a Victorian who thinks the extreme right-wing John Birch Society is "a wonderful thing."

"All good Canadians are of the Birch stripe," says Richard Hoskin Duce, 2119 McLaren, a British-born U.S. citizen and former Canadian citizen who says he will perhaps try to regain his Canadian citizenship.

Mr. Duce was a real estate salesman in Victoria from 1907 to 1914, joined the Canadian Expeditionary Force overseas during the First World War, went to Hollywood in 1929 where he became art director of 275 short films, and returned to Victoria a year ago. He is now 77.

Here is a sampling of his views:

● "Mrs. (Eleanor) Roosevelt was Red as hell, she should have died 20 years ago."

● "The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (in the U.S.) is Communist-inspired."

● Under the urging of outside elements they (the Negroes) want something in 10 minutes that should take 10 years:

● "U.S. President Kennedy lives in a segregated area, he won't send his children where the niggers are."

● "The biggest traitor the U.S. ever had was (Franklin Delano) Roosevelt—he started the give-away program to the Communists, he supported Russia in the war."

● "I hope that Canadian immigration (authorities) do not encourage Negroes to come in—it would only cause dissension."

The jovial Mr. Duce recently returned to Victoria from 10 years in retirement in California.

While sipping a drink and occasionally interrupted by his German-born wife, Charlotte, with the German endearment "Schatzi"—"Dearie"—continued:

$3,500,000

"We the taxpayers (in the U.S.) spent $3,500,000 to put a Negro (James Meredith) in a university (of Mississippi) that didn't want him. The Kennedy administration is bordering on dictatorship."

Mr. Duce likes to show visitors his plums, pears and peaches growing on trees in his Oak Bay garden.

He says when 250,000 "niggers" moved into Los Angeles the trouble started, they became new-rich."

Asked what he thinks of the Jews after a remark he had made earlier, Mr. Duce says:

Cooked Them

"I worked with Jews for years—they took possession of Germany, they started the infestation until Hitler cooked them in the ovens."

Mr. Duce says he hates anti-semitism "as such, but this is Christian country, and Jews are not Christian, they should not be in high places."

Is Mr. Duce a Christian?

"I believe absolutely in Christian ethics," he says.

"I come from a Christian family," says Mrs. Duce. "All our friends are Christian."

Assassins

Mr. Duce says Israel was "founded under false pretences, murder and assassination. The assassins of (Swedish Count) Bernadotte were in Jewish Israel government pay."

Do he and his wife go to church?

"I don't go very regularly," he says.

"But my wife does."

"Christianity is at the lowest ebb ever," Mr. Duce says. "Ninety per cent of our clergy lack guts—they should fight for their principles."

"The clergy should go out and knock off the many splinter groups."

Then, pointing to a plum ripening on a tree branch, Mr. Duce said:

"Isn't that a lovely plum?"

"Yes, Schatzi," said Mrs. Duce.

St. Joseph's Heeds Warning

Hard-Boiled Edict Hits Palate

Patients and staff at St. Joseph's Hospital who prefer lightly-boiled eggs for breakfast are getting them well-cooked nowadays, like it or not.

Alerted by a United States health official's report that partly-cooked eggs had caused outbreaks of gastroenteritis in 10 northeast states, kitchen staff at St. Joseph's have been ordered to cook all eggs thoroughly as a precautionary measure. No cases of the disease have been reported in British Columbia.

The directive, that all eggs must be cooked until the "whites" are firm, has meant a blanket ban on egg-nogs, three-minute boiled eggs and lightly-cooked fried eggs.

At Royal Jubilee Hospital officials have not issued a similar order but they are keeping close watch as a precautionary measure.

Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread, senior medical health officer of the Metropolitan Board of Health, said last night he agrees that all eggs should be properly cooked before being eaten.

But, he stressed, no cases of the disease—salmonella derby—have been found in this area and the action of St. Joseph's Hospital was purely precautionary.

"The eggs here in Victoria are very, very good," Dr.

Whitbread said. "But I think it is always a good idea to cook eggs, anyway."

Dr. Luther Terry, surgeon-general of the U.S. Public Health Service, issued the egg warning after some 40 U.S. hospitals in the northeast states were involved in a recent salmonella derby outbreak.

MP to Investigate

Smoke, Soot Victims Find New Champion

Smoke and soot-smear citizens living in unorganized territory along the Island Highway will have their complaints reported to federal authorities, Esquimalt-Saanich MP George Chatterton promised last night.

Second Stage

Tunnel Tenders Called

The smoke and fly ash comes from waste burners installed on the Songhees Indian Reserve under a lease negotiated with the Department of Indian Affairs.

Second stage in construction of a five-mile, $8,000,000 tunnel to assure Greater Victoria adequate water supplies for decades to come will begin this winter.

Tenders have been called for construction of a 12,000-foot section of the tunnel which will link Sooke Lake with the Goldstream watershed.

Started in 1960, the plan to build the tunnel will provide enough water for a population of 500,000. First section—3,000 feet long—was completed two years ago.

PAY-AS-YOU-GO

Greater Victoria Water District is using a pay-as-you-go policy in building the tunnel and has spent the past two years building up a bank balance to pay for the next section of the tunnel.

Water rates were increased in 1960 to help pay the cost of pushing the tunnel through, and this, together with increased prices for lumber in watershed areas, has raised the money needed.

CALL TENDERS

"We hope to have enough when this 12,000-foot section is completed to call tenders for the remaining 14,000 feet," water commissioner Ronald Upward said last night.

The tunnel will replace the 42-inch flume built in 1912 which snakes 27 miles through the Sooke Hills to carry the water a straight-line distance of only eight miles from Sooke Lake.

The tunnel, 7½ feet in diameter, will have to be cemented to prevent any possibility of cave-in, Mr. Upward said.

PRESENT SUPPLY

Present water supply facilities will be adequate to meet demands up until 1970 or 1971. Winter construction of the new section of tunnel will make it eligible for a $50,000 federal grant to encourage winter works.

Tenders for the new section of the tunnel are returnable at 2 p.m. Sept. 4.

"I will take it up with the department to see what the terms of the lease are," Mr. Chatterton said. "I will see if the company is living up to the terms of its lease."

"I don't know if the terms of the lease provide for control over the amount of smoke produced. If there is no smoke control in the lease I will certainly see what the department can do about it."

Mr. Chatterton saw the smoke problem at first hand Thursday morning when he drove through the area on his way to Esquimalt.

COMPLAINTS

Bitter complaints came from residents of the Island Highway, north of the Craigflower bridge, up to the Four Mile House.

And last night a Saanich resident—not affected by the smoke or fly ash—backed up the complaints.

"I went up to Cowichan Bay fishing yesterday and coming back over the Malahat the smoke was so thick we couldn't see Sidney," Robert Kennedy, 3015 Admirals said.

HARDLY SEE

"Down near the junction of the highway and Tillicum Road you could hardly see the outdoor theatre for smoke."

"Usually I can see the highway across Portage Inlet from my window, but right now you can hardly see it for smoke."

45 Named For Award

A total of 45 people have now been nominated for Greater Victoria's 1963 Good Citizen award. It was reported last night.

Nominations will be received until midnight tonight. Letters of nomination for the award should be mailed to E. H. Hironaka, 609 Trutch, Victoria, and must contain reasons why the nominee should get the award.

Building Price—$12,750 Selling Price—$1,275

Built by city hall for $12,750 some years ago, the caretaker's home at the empty Mountain View Home will be sold for $1,275.

City finance committee this week decided to recommend that council accept the offer when it was told cost of moving the three-bedroom house would be about $3,500.

The committee also recommended that city council should pay for a tour of Victoria for members of the National Youth Orchestra when it visits the city later this month.

Valiant Quits—For Good

Alan Valiant said he won't try again to beat a 121-mile walking record after he threw in the towel last night shortly before midnight.

Valiant, 21, quit walking after 21½ hours and 80-odd miles but Danny Cousins, 17, was still going strong at press time this morning.

Both had started out at 10 p.m. Thursday from Douglas at Tolmie in their attempt to better a record set in 1983 and an unofficial 123-mile walk by Earl Speakman, 18, last week.

For Valiant, winner of the March 30 Colonist 50-mile Walkathon, final defeat came after his second attempt—last Sunday he walked 39 miles—and after two postponements.

Why did Valiant quit twice? First time, his feet hurt. Second time, his feet hurt and he said he had a bad sunburn.

Danny Cousins' feet were fine and apparently he didn't suffer from sunburn.

At 10:30 p.m. yesterday, the Colonist Nanaimo correspondent spotted Valiant and Cousins eight miles south of Nanaimo. At that time, both said they were feeling fine and going strong.

At 11:45 p.m. the same night, the Colonist Duncan correspondent saw Valiant sitting in a car two miles north of Ladysmith.

Cousins was seen soon after heading south one mile south of Ladysmith.

Both walkers had not turned around at Departure Bay as planned but had gone to Fishermen's Wharf to avoid heavy Friday traffic in downtown Nanaimo.

Cousins said he hoped to be in Duncan by 6 a.m. today and at Victoria City Hall at 6 p.m. tonight.

Cheques Eagerly Awaited

A cheque for somewhere between $200 and $300 is being eagerly anticipated in the next few days by each of some 240 Victoria postal workers.

Postal employees and officials in Victoria have received no official word about when cheques for retroactive pay increases, effective as of last Oct. 1, are to be received. But they feel the cheques are about due.

And Sidney post office employees eligible for the pay increase, all four of them, received their retroactive pay-cheques three days ago.

Dockers To Vote

Some 110 Victoria longshoremen, along with 4,500 throughout the B.C. coast, will vote next week on a settlement of the coast-wide labor dispute.

Hot weather throughout the southern Vancouver Island area has boosted the forest fire hazard to "moderate to high" and prompted Saanich fire officials to cancel burning permits.

And there is little chance that today will ease the tinder-dry situation. Weatherman William Mackie forecasts little change in temperature.

BUSHFIRES

The decision to cancel burning permits in Saanich was taken after two small bushfires broke out yesterday. Two bushfires broke out Thursday in the municipality.

Provincial forestry officials appealed yesterday for all persons using the woods this week-end to use extreme caution with campfires, cigarettes and matches, and to report any outbreaks immediately to the nearest forest service office.

'Island-Alaska Highway by 1965'

ALAN MACLEAN

Alaska residents "have to be assured the Canadians are coming," says the chief promoter of a highway linking Victoria with Port Hardy, opening a direct highway-ferry route to Alaska and Yukon Territory.

"We know many people want the highway. We know the B.C. government is interested. And we hope that by 1965 the route is completed," says Alan Maclean, former owner of Campbell River's Painter's Lodge.

Mr. Maclean is also managing director of the North Pacific Coastway Association, Route of the Haidas, an organization of Vancouver Island businessmen.

What is the aim of the association, formed 1½ years ago?

"The proposed coastal route to Alaska "is the shortest and best all year round," says Mr. Maclean.

It would eliminate by 600 miles and many hours travelling time the present link with Alaska via B.C.'s interior to Prince Rupert.

It means Vancouver Island would become "Canada's corridor to Alaska," says Mr. Maclean.

The route would serve domestic, business and recreation travel on one hand, on the other it would facilitate commercial and industrial transport.

The president of Vancouver Island Gas Company, Dick Bond of Nanaimo, says the proposed new highway will have a greater effect on the Island's economy than the discovery of coal did in the 19th century.

He says the project will open up the entire north end of the island for industrial and recreational development.

He says the extension would reduce travelling time over present routes by 10 hours despite a 16-hour ferry trip from Port Hardy to Prince Rupert.

Trucks and other traffic would cross to the island from Vancouver, or Seattle, and after using the existing Island Highway to Kelsey Bay, would travel over a 40-mile extension connecting with the Port McNell-Port Hardy Road.

The provincial government has set aside $7,000,000 for the project as part of a 10-year highway program.

Biggest accomplishment of the association is that "we are getting the right people to talk about," says Mr. Maclean.

"It's costing Vancouver Island a fortune for every day the route isn't in operation," he says.

North Island communities to profit from the route would be Port Hardy, Beaver Cove, Englewood, Port McNell, Alert Bay, Port Alice, Jeune Landing, Coal Harbor, Sointula and even Holberg.

"The resources in that area—mining, fishing and forestry—constitute a year-round economy," Mr. Maclean says.

"Domestic travel and commercial transport would be the backbone of the new route."

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Here it is August and my wife is still walking around with a long face because I didn't remember her on Mother's Day.

Before you call me a heel I want to tell you she is not a mother. I don't hold that against her because I know she wanted a family, just as I did. Unfortunately, the Lord didn't see fit to bless us.

In other years (11 to be exact) I always send her a little Mother's Day gift and signed the card "With Love to Mommy from Nipper"—he was our Golden Retriever. But Nipper died last January so I didn't send her a gift this Mother's Day.

She says I should have sent a gift from me. But I say it would have made no sense at all since she is not my mother. Will you please settle this? She's crying again. Thank you. —NAGGED AT

Dear At: She wasn't Nipper's mother either, was she? If you were good enough to send your wife a Mother's Day gift in the

I shouldn't say but all of them are true.

A close friend of mine who recently married told me that engaged people argue and that we will settle our differences after marriage. What do you think? —MISS QUESTION MARK

Dear Miss Mark: You say you're engaged to marry "a wonderful guy" but your letter spells out clearly how much more wonderful you think YOU are.

Aside from the fact that you're a girl and he's a boy I see nothing to recommend this relationship. It's incredible to me that you two could even be considering marriage.

Bride-Elect Honored at Linen Shower

Miss Marlene Cummin, September bride-elect, was honored at a linen shower held at the home of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Robert Cummin, 1326 Dunsterville Avenue. Miss Barbara Cummin was co-hostess.

Guests present were Mrs. Richard Smith, Mrs. Harry Smith, Mrs. Ian Fesce, Mrs. William Simpson, Mrs. Richard Hurst, Mrs. Wayne Budynski, Mrs. Clayton Bruce, Mrs. Dennis Rand, Mrs. Alexander Tocher, Miss Sylvia Gordon, and Miss Beverly Tocher.

"That was GREAT, Roger! When did you learn to play revolve?"

28th Anniversary

Marrion Oldnall Wed Same Date as Parents

A double-ring ceremony in St. Andrew's Cathedral united Marrion Patricia Oldnall and Neil John Gourlie in marriage. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Oldnall, Tillicum Road, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Gourlie of Trail, B.C. Rev. Father D. Johnston officiated. The wedding took place on Aug. 3, the bride's parents' 28th wedding anniversary.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, chose a white floor-length gown of organza over satin, styled with a Sabrina neckline and V waistline caught at the back with a self fabric rose. The bodice was accented with mother of pearl and side panels of lace formed an apron effect on the skirt. Her net veil fell from a bandeau of seed pearls and she carried a white orchid on a white prayer book.

Mrs. D. Marchand was matron of honor for her sister in a blue chiffon over satin dress with lace bolero jacket. Accessories were white and she wore a white floral whimsy. Karen Gourlie and Dianne Copp were in similar dresses of blue and yellow respectively. Pat McLean chose a yellow chiffon over satin dress, styled with floating panels from the shoulder. The attendants carried colonial bouquets of toning carnations.

Mr. Jim Gourlie was best man for his brother and Mr. Don Marchand, Mr. Robb Gordon and Mr. Robert West ushered guests.

At a reception held in the Flamingo Room, Crystal Gardens, a three-tiered wedding cake was cut by the bridal couple. The top layer of the cake was baked for the bride's grandmother's 50th wedding anniversary cake. Red roses and white tapers were used for decorations.

A dress of ice orange print and orange coat were chosen by the new Mrs. Gourlie for a honeymoon at Qualicum Beach. White accessories and an orchid corsage completed the ensemble. On their return the newlyweds will make their home at 244 Gorge Road West.

Out-of-town guests at the Gourlie-Oldnall wedding were Mr. and Mrs. N. R. Cook, Mrs. D. Gamlin, Trail; Mrs. A. Sproule and Judy, Mr. and Mrs. R. McNichol, Mr. R. Bruder, Mr. and Mrs. P. Seifert, Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. W. Jubenville, Lake Cowichan; Mr. and Mrs. J. Milligan, Alberni; Mr. and Mrs. J. Giger Canby, Ore., and Mr. and Mrs. W. Hinkle, Clackamas, Ore.

Mrs. Donald C. Nagel, former Flora Mary Lowe, was married recently in Gorge Presbyterian Church with Rev. T. H. McAllister officiating. She is only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Lowe, Logan Avenue, and her groom is son of Mr. Chris Hagel, Vancouver, and Mrs. A. Watson, Vernon, B.C. After honeymoon in northern British Columbia the young couple are now living at 236 Acorn. —(Chapman Photography)

Brocatelle High Style After Five

By HELEN ABEL
Copy News Service

Evening fabrics for fall and winter are elegant in appearance.

Q. What is brocatelle?
A. Brocatelle is a fabric similar to brocade but with the designs in bas relief which means they puff out or are raised up from the background. Brocatelle usually is made on a jacquard loom with the puffed pattern in a satin or twill weave on a plain weave ground. Brocatelle is pronounced "brock a tell."

Brocatelle originated in the 14th century as an imitation of Italian tooled leather and was used for decorative purposes and then for fashionable wear. In this, the 20th century, brocatelles are utilized for drapery and upholstery.

This fall and winter in lighter weights and mainly in silks, brocatelles are a high fashion hit in "after five" and evening clothes. For instance, Harvey Berin's theatre suits have brocatelle jackets and skirts with velvet overblouses beaded in designs which match the blistered patterns in the brocatelle.

Harold Levine uses a minimum of detailing on his brocatelle evening costumes which feature floor-length gowns and coats. A handsome example consists of a princess formal topped by a wide cut wrap, both in brocatelle with a white ground and a golden puffed motif.

Two-tone black brocatelle is fashioned into a short dinner gown with a puffed hemline by Tarquin Ebker. The background is a mat or no-shen black with the raised pattern in a shiny black.

Party Touch

Crabmeat stuffed tomatoes give any lunch a party touch. Wash six medium-size fresh tomatoes and cut off tops. Scoop out pulp and drain well. Fill shells with mixture of 1 (6½-ounce) can of crabmeat, 1 cup of day-old bread crumbs, ¼ teaspoon of fresh lemon juice, 1 teaspoon of salt, ¼ teaspoon of ground black pepper and a dash of cayenne. Sprinkle each with 1 tablespoon of grated cheddar cheese. Bake, uncovered, in preheated 375-degree oven, 20 to 25 minutes. Serves six.

Montreal Housewife Flooded with Teeth

By JANET KARR

MONTREAL (CP)—"How a little nobody from Cote St. Luc could get involved in something like this, I don't know," said Mrs. Ethel Kesler, the Montreal housewife who started women across Canada saving baby teeth for scientific research.

Mrs. Kesler, a former social worker, has aroused international interest in her Montreal Baby Tooth Survey and has just been asked to write a paper on her work for Dr. Benjamin Spock, the renowned United States baby expert.

The mailbox at her suburban Cote St. Luc home is jammed with teeth and inquiries from mothers as far away as the Yukon. Sometimes entire sets of baby teeth arrive and she has even received teeth from dogs and cows.

Scientists agree that teeth shed by children are an invaluable source of information about the absorption in the human body of strontium 90, thought to be the most dangerous of radioactive materials produced in a nuclear explosion.

BEGAN IN ST. LOUIS

The first tooth survey was set up by St. Louis housewives, who have collected more than 110,000 deciduous teeth since 1958, following a suggestion by Dr. Herman Klacker, Johns Hopkins University biochemist, in a science journal. Scientists at Washington University in St. Louis, aided by the U.S. public Health Service, use the teeth to study effects of strontium 90 on children's bones.

Concerned about radiation hazards for some time, Mrs. Kesler learned about the St. Louis project and, in 1960, began what snowballed into a national baby tooth collection in Canada.

The Montreal Baby Tooth Survey began under the sponsorship of the Quebec Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament. This year Voice of Women has taken over the project, now operating in eight Canadian cities. Dr. Ursula Franklin, a physicist with the Ontario Research Foundation and the University of Toronto, is directing it.

Canadian baby teeth go to the laboratories of Dr. A. M. Hunt of the University of Toronto's School of Dentistry. Dr. Hunt in his research has found that breast-fed babies absorb less strontium 90 than those fed on bottles and that children of certain age groups have absorbed more than others.

Dr. Hunt tested teeth from 1951 to 1957 and found the strontium 90 absorption rate went up each year. Now he needs teeth to test the period from 1957 to 1961.

Baby tooth surveys in Vancouver, Edmonton, Saskatoon, Winnipeg, London, Toronto and Halifax are being patterned after the Montreal survey which operates in much the same way as the original St. Louis plan. Inquiries have also been received from mothers in Calgary and Hamilton interested in setting up local surveys.

Mothers are asked to fill in forms obtainable at local chain stores and send teeth with forms to the local survey office. Youngsters get buttons saying "I gave my tooth to science."

Mrs. Kesler says her own boys, twins of 11 and a nine-year-old, are among her best salesmen.

She said the nucleus of the Montreal survey consisted of herself and two other housewives. But she had hundreds of volunteers whenever she needed help.

Mrs. Kesler feels there is a dangerous "free floating anxiety" in this nuclear age and that giving baby teeth for research somehow helps mothers alleviate this feeling.

She is aided by an advisory committee of scientists. But people seem to regard her as some kind of a "lay dentist."

"I get requests for all sorts of information about teeth."

Wedding Presents

NEW YORK (UPI)—The average bride receives $1,003 worth of wedding presents, reports one bride magazine.

Brides buy or receive as gifts about one out of three blenders, coffee makers, electric skillets and clock radios sold. And they're responsible for the sales of better than four out of 10 mixers, toasters, waffle irons, and bedspreads.

Garden Notes

Rose-of-Sharon Is?

By M. V. CHESNUT FRBS

With the fall nursery catalogues arriving in the mail and shrub-planting time only a couple of months away, I think it is about time to clear up a bit of confusion that surrounds the name Rose-of-Sharon, for this could mean either one of two entirely different shrubs.

This nickname is often used to designate a low-growing prominent tassel of stamens sticking up in the centre of the bloom like a little brush. This is Hypericum calycinum, and a fine low shrub it is, too, especially for covering a difficult, dryish slope or bank, but I don't think it has much title to the name Rose-of-Sharon, for it is known pretty well throughout the English-speaking world as St. John's Wort. In some districts, because of its characteristic tuft of stamens, it is called Aaron's Beard.

The other Rose-of-Sharon is a member of the Mallow family called Hibiscus syriacus. It is a very old shrub, a native of South China that came to Europe by way of Syria about 300 years ago. There are quite a few different varieties available, some with single and some with double blossoms, but nearly all of them make a rather stiff bush eight to ten feet tall, and bearing great three-inch trumpet flowers from August to October.

The blossoms are very similar to the individual florets of a well-grown hollyhock — perhaps a bit bigger — and the difference between the named varieties lies chiefly in the color of the blooms.

Among the single-flowered kinds, I like one called Hamabo, a glorious bluish pink with a centre splash of crimson. Rubris is a rich wine shade, like sunlight through a stained glass window. Coelestis has lavender blue blossoms with a carmine eye, while Snowdrift is a pure, unmarked white.

Jeanne d'Arc and Admiral Dewey are both pure white doubles, while Boule de Feu bears frilly double blossoms in a brilliant red. For a pink double, I like La Reine, and about the best of the double blues is Coeruleus plenius.

Hibiscus syriacus, the real Rose-of-Sharon, is a cinch to grow but not so easy to coax into bloom. Stick it in a cold, dark corner, and it will go off into a fit of the sulks, contributing to your garden about as much color as a bush of Privet. But if you give Rose-of-Sharon a warm, sheltered spot in full sun, and in rich but well drained soil where puddles never lie in winter, you'll be the envy of your neighbors, for the shrub will be covered with its lovely hollyhock-like blossoms all through the late summer and fall.

Rose-of-Sharon is not, of course, the glorious and exotic Hibiscus of Hawaii and the tropics—that southern cousin isn't hardy enough to be grown outdoors in our climate—but it has many points of resemblance. The flowers are not as large nor as spectacular as the tropical trumpets, but they have the same musky fragrance and are borne much more freely.

Hibiscus syriacus is not an expensive shrub to buy, in one local nursery catalogue before me, I see six different varieties offered at prices ranging from $1.75 to $3.25 each, depending on size and age.

Film Prices Soar in Paris

ROME (NANA)—They will be charging $3.00 a ticket, an unheard-of price in Paris for Burt Lancaster's prize-winning picture, The Leopard. And $4.00 for Cleopatra. . . . Marlon Brando's film, The Ugly American will be shown here in September when it is cooler. Very few theatres in Paris are air-conditioned, and it is the hot, dead season now. Five years ago, Marlon was the most popular American actor in France and Italy. Some of those recent, bad pictures have dented his appeal.

On the sound stage next door, 18-year-old Catherine Spaak was making love to Horst Buchholz. Catherine, niece of Belgian cabinet minister Paul-Henri Spaak, is married and has a child. But what makes this different is that she gave birth to the baby two months before she married for the express purpose of forcing her parents to agree to the marriage, which is a happy one. And now everyone is happy. But the rode is changing, isn't it?

The French are now calling her Romy Schneider. Arthur Kennedy and Peter Falk are somewhere in ripst Russia making their film, Italians are Good People . . . and has it been printed that Burt Lancaster will play Doctor Zhivago in the David Lean-Carlo Ponti production? To be made in Italy.

If Gardner McKay is the pet of Paris, Brett Maloney is the rover-boy of Rome. The signorinas dote on him and this could be why Brett has decided to stay more or less forever in the eternal city.

That $12,000 brooch lost by Mrs. Cornet Wilde in Rome—was not insured, which makes her feel somewhat sick. . . . Faith Domergue and I were discussing this fact, and Faith told me that the very expensive diamond ring given her long ago by Howard Hughes is now in a vault in Paris, by order of the insurers, Lloyds of London. "They refused to insure any of my jewels unless I kept the ring in a vault." All very well, but why have jewels if you can't wear them?

Sami Spiegel who is everywhere has not retired from the making of movies, he assured me. "In fact," said the producer of Lawrence of Arabia, I am going to Hollywood in September to start preparations for The Chase.

The Rome American printed some excruciating comments about the acting of Elizabeth Taylor by the British reviewers of Cleopatra. I can't remember when a top actress has been singled out like this for such strong criticism. The reviewer on the London Times even preferred the performances of Kim Novak! And reports from London say Liz and Richard Burton, who had been expected to appear at the last minute for the premiere of Cleopatra, not only did not appear, but also did not arrive to pick up the four seats they had ordered for the hit play, A Severed Head, on the same night.

It must be fun to be so rich. Serge Sennese, who finances so many films, has rented the 700-ton yacht off Lady Decker for two months. And it is costing him 1,000,000 lire ($1,700) a day. With the 35-man crew thrown in, of course. . . . and it must be fun to have such a good title that even though you have never made a movie before, you have the right to okay your cast and the script. And I do mean ex-Queen Soraya who is under contract to Dino de Laurentis.

Father Williams and Fernando Lamas who are living in Rome, tell everyone who asks, that they are married. Fernando is making a musketeer costume thing. . . . Two famous Tarzans are living happily in Rome—not together of course, Gordon Scott and Lex Barker.

Horst Buchholz rented a 15th-century mansion near Rome, with 400 acres, 10 bedrooms, most elegant antique furniture with a great art collection belonging to the dual owner. And you can imagine his surprise when in a secluded spot in the grounds, Horst stumbled over a swimming pool with the name, Esther Williams emblazoned at the bottom.

Fellini's next picture will star his wife Giuletta Masina. It is all about magic, and will be filmed in Sardinia which has become the new chic place for blasé millionaires. Sam Spiegel was entertaining a select group on his yacht in a little cove there—the Anatole Litvak, Eina Martinelli and photographer friend. And close by, on another elegant yacht, Princess Alexander and Princess Maria Pia of Yugoslavia.

Raf Vallone has one of the starring roles in A Ghost at Noon with Bardot and it was the renewal of an old friendship for BB and RV which began before her attempted suicide a few years ago. The other male star in the film, Jack Palance, was not too happy during production, but for a nice change, his irritation had nothing to do with Bardot. He did not care for director Jean Luc-Goddard's way of improvising on the set.

JOHN CROSBY'S Guest Says

Losers Deserve Break

John Crosby is on vacation. In his absence his column will be carried on by guest writers.

By KIRK DOUGLAS
Now that we are in the awards off-season, with the 36th annual Oscar presentations well behind us, it may be the proper time to announce a plan I've been pondering for benefit of that vast majority of performers — those who have been nominated for Academy Awards but have never won.

There must be easily 400 to 500 non-winners among us, since there are 20 persons nominated each year for the four acting Oscars. This means, obviously, there are hundreds of acceptance speeches that were rehearsed but never delivered. I am now proposing to organize a banquet to be attended by all nominees who have never won. During the course of the evening, each would be permitted to give an acceptance speech (limited to one speech per person) that he or she has so carefully worked out in the past.

Our "best speaker" award will be an Oscar facing backward, which we shall call a Rascio.

It must be admitted that every actor dreams of winning an Oscar. He may cover up his desire in many ways; at one of the Academy Award presentations, Burt Lancaster and I performed a sour grapes routine called "It's Great Not to be Nominated." Then Burt broke up the act by not only getting nominated but by winning an Oscar. Now, in Seven Days in May, Burt and I are working together, with a man who is a dual offender, Freddie March. Freddy has twice won the Oscar.

So much for the winners. I want to talk for the others, and I can speak with authority. As a three-time loser.

When I won my first nomination for Champion, I was doubly elated. Nearly everyone had advised me against doing the film at all. It was early in my career and I was up for a big part in an all-star MGM film. I chose instead to do Champion over many objections, especially from my guests.

"Who's Stanley Kramer?" they said. "We remember when he was an office boy."

"So what?" I said. "I remember when I was a waiter at Schrafft's."

So I got nominated. Then I went through weeks of self-torture, wondering whether I would win and, if I should, what I would say during my great moment in the spotlight, when I clutched the coveted piece of gold.

During those weeks of waiting and worrying, I spent hours in my bedroom looking into a mirror, rehearsing my acceptance speech. I never got to speak. Brod Crawford won that year.

Three years later, "The Bad and the Beautiful" brought my second nomination. I found myself back in front of the mirror. My speech was beautiful. But so was the competition that year—Marlon Brando, Jose Ferrer, Alec Guinness, and Gary Cooper were the other contenders. Coop won it.

Another four years passed and I was nominated again, for "Lust For Life." Everyone I encountered said that I would win, and this time they convinced me that I would finally get an Oscar. But when the envelope was opened, Yul Brynner's name came out. Another great acceptance speech went down the drain.

I said it's time to give the loser his due, and it's not that I mean to be ungracious. Imagine the number of man-hours and woman-hours all those hundreds of articulate runners-up have put into undelivered acceptance speeches and you know why I am compelled to suggest the Rascio affair. I just hate to see creative talent go to waste.

Dead Boy's Companion Describes Encounter

By KLAUS MUENTER

DUNCAN—A 16-year-old boy yesterday described the circumstances under which his companion, 14-year-old Hugh George Nesbitt of Duncan, died a mysterious death Thursday night.

He is Conrad Wohlers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wohlers who operate a dairy farm on Bassett Road.

The scene of the incident was about six miles east of Duncan, about 100 yards from the dead boy's home on Bassett, where he lived with his mother, Mrs. Joan Nesbitt, and his sister Kathy, 11, in the home of his grandmother, Mrs. L. A. Farrell.

Police in Duncan yesterday morning said "Hugh George Nesbitt and another youth were walking on Maple Bay Road at 9:30 p.m. and as a result of an undetermined reason the Nesbitt boy died a few minutes later."

"Four other local youths were involved and further investigations are being carried out. There was no direct violence apparent at the time, and no one is in custody."

Police said the boy died within minutes of the incident around 9:30 p.m.

Conrad Wohlers said he and Hugh Nesbitt were returning from a walk to Maple Bay when suddenly a car almost ran over them. There were two boys and two girls in the car.

He said the car turned around and stopped about 70 feet from them, and one of the youths in the car called, "What did you say, kid?"

Hugh was said to have answered, "We didn't say anything," Conrad said the two boys jumped out of the car, and he said to Hugh, "Let's get out of here."

Conrad said, "One chased after me and I ran into a driveway nearby, and the other was after Hugh who tried to climb over a gate."

He heard one of the girls in the car shout, "Stop it, stop, leave him alone." Conrad said he did not see what, if anything, the two did to Hugh.

About four minutes later the car was backed up to the driveway where Conrad was hiding, stopped for a short while and drove ahead where Hugh Nesbitt was lying. There it stopped again.

Conrad said one of the boys said to the other in the car, "Oh, he is okay," and then they drove off.

He said when he ran to Hugh he found him unconscious and breathing heavily. "He had his face scratched by the cut broom where he fell, and there was some blood," Conrad said.

He said he ran to Hugh's home, and Mrs. Nesbitt came and immediately called the ambulance. Conrad said when the attending doctor applied artificial respiration he saw blood coming from Hugh's mouth.

He said he recognized the two boys in the car and said one is aged 17, the other 18.

Conrad said he was driven around in a police car to find the car but to no avail. Late Thursday two boys and two girls were interrogated by police here.

Conrad said he believed they had been drinking. Meanwhile the body of the dead boy was taken to Victoria for an autopsy and was viewed last night. Coroner Dr. J. S. Goodbrand said the date for an inquest has not yet been set.

Courtenay Mayor:

No Welfare Cheques For 'Fit' Workers

COURTENAY—Next move in the "work for welfare" campaign started by Mayor W. C. Moore and his council this week will come Aug. 15 when the mayor will refuse to sign welfare cheques for able-bodied men who, he thinks, should work for their money.

He said this week he is annoyed when he signs welfare cheques for able-bodied men who could and should work. Some have been on welfare for years and are often seen inebriated.

The city pays 10 per cent of the welfare payments with the rest coming from the province.

NOT ISSUED

When Aug. 15 comes and cheques are not signed nor issued, it is expected protests will be filed with the provincial government.

This is the second time Courtenay has been the centre of a welfare-money controversy.

A few years ago a social worker refused to authorize payments for some men and said they should sign up for the six-weeks civil defence courses being run by the army here.

BCE Talks Set

Out-of-court discussions, aimed at simplifying the tangled B.C. Electric litigation, will be held "possibly Monday," Attorney-General Robert Bonner said Friday.

The attorney-general, who made the statement at a press conference, said time and place had not been decided.

The attorney-general disclosed that Douglas McK. Brown, counsel for B.C. Power Corporation, parent body of the expropriated B.C. Electric, had written government counsel M. M. McFarlane, stating his clients were anxious "to start discussions and to outline what we think are the principal points requiring discussion."

Mr. Bonner said points suggested in the letter were:

Builders Wait

Dam Pact Still In Doubt

VANCOUVER (CP)—A construction consortium is still awaiting assurance from the B.C. government that the $73,000,000 Peace River dam contract is valid.

The construction group, headed by Peter Klewit Sons of Canada Ltd., delayed $10,000,000 in purchases of supply and equipment for the dam project after Chief Justice Sherwood Lett's Supreme Court judgment that the government's expropriation of the B.C. Electric in 1961 was ultra vires of the legislature and thus the formation of B.C. Hydro and Power Authority the following year was invalid.

B.C. Hydro let the contract for the giant dam and the contractors are seeking clarification whether the contract is legal. Meanwhile, minor work is continuing at the dam site.

A spokesman for the consortium said he did not know why it is taking so long to settle the matter.

"The lawyers are working on it but there have been no official meetings between the group and the provincial government," he said.

PLEDGE NOT BINDING
The consortium's lawyers are reported to have said letters from Premier Bennett assuring the contract would be honored were not binding on the government.

The spokesman said the consortium is taking the position that it has not a firm legal contract.

Pointers on Marx

THIS IS RUSSIA

—$35
A Day

By ALAN HARVEY
Fifth of a Series

TASHKENT, Soviet Union (CP)—For $35 a day try anything once tourists can pick up pointers on Marxism-Leninism while lounging on still-like wooden platforms built along a river bank in sweltering central Asia.

Or you can take the golden road to Samarkand, celebrated in James Elroy Flecker's poem, and visit mosques and mausoleums from emperor Tamerlane's time; listen to the sizzle of shashlik in a sort of Communist Coney Island in Tashkent; or see enough historic buildings in Leningrad to last a lifetime.

Whatever you do, watch for the unexpected. Tourism in the Soviet Union is young, raw and full of surprises. Don't boggie at bees on bathroom floors, and don't fuss about frills.

Maybe that $35-a-day tariff for de luxe tourists sounds high, but it includes hotel, bath, guide and a car three hours daily. The system is probably unique. To prevent you from drowning in the murky alphabet soup of a Russian language that turns familiar symbols on their heads, guides meet you at airport or station and steer you safely through the formalities.

Don't Panic

Don't panic if English or French leaves the porter cold. The big hotels have "service bureaux" staffed with multilingual experts. Long before your visit ends, you learn to lean heavily on the interpreters, though they're sometimes tucked away out of sight.

For one traveller, a memorable moment came in dialectical discussion with a dedicated young Marxist-trained guide, a dark-skinned Uzbek named Bacht Zafarov.

The setting was idyllic. With weeping willows forming a shield against the Asian sun, we reclined in slippers on a verandah-style platform jutting into the Bos-su River near the Chitkal mountains.

These river-bank sanctuaries are called chahana, meaning "place for tea." They are cool, cosy and altogether delightful.

Slick Hair

Flicking back slick black hair over Oriental features and pouring strong green tea into porcelain mugs, Zafarov spoke passionately of the future Soviet paradise ("free transportation for all by 1970"), the unavailability of Marxist logic and what he called American "domination" of Canada.

Fellow tourist C. Paul Sandifer of Spokane, Wash., a finance company executive, replied that he personally would like to see Canada and the U.S. merged as one nation, bearing the name Canada if that would appease Canadian sensitivity.

His responses seemed as spontaneous as studio laughter at a television show. "Either you mean this, or you mean that," he would say. "If you mean this, cite one specific case to prove it."

Train Loot: $7,575,300

LONDON (AP)—British accountants have totalled losses of £2,525,100 ($7,575,300) in the world's greatest train robbery. Rewards for arrest and conviction of the robbers soared Friday to more than £242,000 ($726,000).

Detectives swarmed through race track crowds and shady drinking spots looking for a splurge of underworld spending.

The loot was easily spendable paper currency that banks were shipping to London for repulping.

K in No Hurry for Summit

MOSCOW (Reuters-UPI)—U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk flew back here Friday night after 2½ hours of talks and a game of badminton with vacationing Premier Khrushchev at the sunny Black Sea resort of Gagra.

Western diplomats said Rusk found Khrushchev in no hurry to further ease cold war tensions.

They said that Khrushchev apparently does not want a summit meeting now or in the immediate future as an aftermath of the partial nuclear test ban treaty, nor does he want to push for the time being at least, his desire for an East-West non-aggression pact.

The Gagra talks were carried on in a "frank and friendly" atmosphere, the Soviet news agency Tass reported.

Khrushchev suggested the game of badminton, but the first two points in the game, played in a brightly-lit gymnasium, were won by Rusk. Then Khrushchev took the lead.

PLAY WELL

"I'm going to lose," Rusk laughed. "You play well."

"Practice," Khrushchev replied, grinning.

Rusk, 54, flew to Gagra Thursday to see Khrushchev, 69, following the signing in Moscow of the partial nuclear test ban treaty by the United States, Britain and Russia.

ANDREI INVITED

After playing with Rusk, Khrushchev then invited Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and the Russian ambassador to the United States, Anatoly Dobrynin, onto the badminton court.

Then Rusk played Dobrynin, then Alexei Adzhubel, Khrushchev's son-in-law and editor of the government newspaper Izvestia.

RUSK DECLINES

Tass said Khrushchev also invited Rusk and the rest of the American party into the Black Sea for a swim, but Rusk declined saying his health was not so good.

In the American party were Mrs. Rusk, Foy D. Kohler, ambassador to Russia, and Lewellyn Thompson, ambassador at large and a former ambassador to Moscow.

Fortune Shoplifted By 40-Girl Ring

HAMILTON (UPI)—Police Friday smashed an all-girl teen-age crime ring that stole thousands of dollars worth of merchandise during a six-month shoplifting spree and operated with the coolness and ingenuity of professional thieves.

Detectives said about 40 girls, between the ages of 16 and 18, belonged to the gang and all attended Central Secondary School in Hamilton. Seven girls were charged, two remanded for a pre-sentence report, and police said others would be charged shortly.

The girls, operating in teams of three, victimized department and women's apparel stores in a definite pattern. When one trio finished another team would move into a store.

The loot, at first only chocolate bars and cigarettes included record players, portable typewriters, records and expensive clothing. Police said some of the merchandise was returned for cash refund.

Items of clothing included dresses, coats, sweaters, expensive bathing suits and sportswear. The articles were exchanged among members of the ring.

Detectives Thomas O'Connell, Greg Cousins and James Williams uncovered the ring after a three-day investigation, sparked by the discovery of the hem from a stolen dress near the home of one of the girls.

They said few girls were remorseful although they readily admitted the thefts and even produced the stolen goods without police using search warrants.

Canadians Arrested In Paris, Montreal

$3,000,000 DRUG HAUL

MONTREAL (CP)—The RCMP Friday announced the arrest of two Canadians in connection with the seizure in Paris of 13 pounds of heroin—with an underworld value of $2,000,000 to $3,000,000.

Police said it was the result of international co-operation by narcotics squads of Canada, the United States and France.

Two other Canadians were arrested in Paris, along with a wealthy Frenchman.

The Canadian arrests followed a series of raids on a dozen premises in both Quebec and Ontario.

Arrested in Canada were identified by Inspector J. R. Carriere of the RCMP as Roger LaPierre, 40, of Montreal and Anatole Ethier, 35, of Rockland, Ont.

NO DETAILS

Insp. Carriere said he had no details of the reported arrest in Paris of two Montreal men, Roger LaViolette, 40, and Alain Phaneuf, 20.

Reports from Paris said the two were arrested as they tried to embark by air for Montreal and that customs officers found a number of small plastic sacks of heroin under a false trunk bottom.

WORLD MARKET

The wealthy Frenchman was identified in Paris as Roger Coudert, alleged to have been a major supplier of narcotics to the world market.

Insp. Carriere placed the underworld value of the drugs, when diluted for the market among addicts, at $2,000,000 to $3,000,000.

Marijuana Crop In Alberta

CALGARY (UPI)—Three New York citizens were charged Friday in connection with the growing of marijuana and illegal traffic in the drug.

RCMP said William Connaughton, 37, had been growing marijuana on a farm about 15 miles west of Cochrane, Alta. He pleaded guilty to charge.

Rosa and Jackson Burke pleaded guilty to a charge of being in possession of marijuana from the farm cultivated by Connaughton.

Silver Mine

Arrest In Ore Theft

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP)—A former employee of United Keno Hills Mines Limited at Elsa, Y.T., was arrested and charged with theft of ore Friday following a police investigation into a mysterious shipment of $200,000 in silver ore to an American smelter.

Gerald Henry Priest was arrested in Vancouver by RCMP and was scheduled to be returned to Whitehorse today.

The arrest capped a two-week investigation by RCMP launched after United Keno lodged a complaint in connection with the shipment of about 80 tons of ore.

IMPOUNDED

The ore now is impounded in two railway cars at the East Helena smelter at Helena, Mont. It arrived at the plant two weeks ago.

"At least part of the shipment comprised stolen ore," Inspector J. L. Vachon of the RCMP Whitehorse detachment said. "We're not certain yet how much, but our investigations have revealed some of the ore was stolen."

Inspector Vachon said an accurate value of the ore still has to be made and "will be done as soon as possible."

Victoria-Nanaimo

Hover Charge: $5

VANCOUVER (CP)—A British businessman says Vancouver and Nanaimo could be linked by a hovercraft service at a cost of $5 per fare.

The ride would take 38 minutes. A trip between Vancouver and Victoria would take 1½ hours.

The estimates were made Friday by Stuart J. Miller, representative of Westland Aircraft Limited, who is making a feasibility study of proposed trans-gulf services.

He said in an interview that the Gulf of Georgia offers a superb medium for hovercraft operations, and three organizations are interested.

The hovercraft rides on a cushion of air and can travel over water or flat land. It is not to be confused with a hydrofoil, which rides above the water on retractable skis.

The recommended model for gulf service weighs 37½ tons, seats 150 passengers or 12 tons of freight, and cruises at 65 to 68 knots. The $5 estimate is based on a 60 per cent load factor.

Chlorine Blankets Blocks Sending 275 to Hospital

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Poisonous chlorine gas escaping from a railroad tank car blanketed a six-block area of thickly-populated northeast Philadelphia Friday, sending more than 275 persons to hospital for treatment.

A fire department spokesman said the accident "could have been a real disaster" but a team of masked firemen, using a kit of special tools known as a chlorine coupling unit, sealed off the leak before the gas could reach fatal concentrations.

As it was, hundreds of persons were sickened.

YELLOW CLOUD

The leak occurred as the chlorine, stored as a liquid under pressure, was being transferred from an 80,000-gallon Pennsylvania Railroad tank car, to a vat in the Wonder Chemical Company. Bursting from a broken line, the chlorine turned into a thick yellow gas cloud, heavier than air. The train crew was the first to suffer from its effects.

Pushed by the wind, the yellow cloud spread northward across a public housing project, where several hundred children romped on the playground or swam in the pool.

Police said children and adults overcome by the gas simply dropped where they were.

About three hours after the leak was capped, the cloud of gas dispersed. The fire department said the danger was over and the emergency units were being recalled.

Just two weeks ago, July 26, a faulty valve on a chlorine tank at a Reading, Pa., swimming pool sent 50 people to hospitals.

Double Tragedy Stalks Ceremony

DON TIN, South Viet Nam (AP)—Tragedy stalked ceremonies Friday which had been intended to send retiring U.S. Ambassador Frederick E. Nolting home amid a warm glow of friendship.

Nolting arrived from Saigon to find one of the jeeps in his official motorcade had run over and killed a three-year-old boy, and one of the three helicopters in his security escort had accidentally fired off a burst of machine gun bullets, killing a six-year-old boy and wounding five persons including the child's mother.

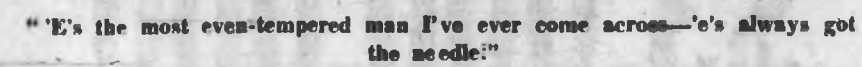

The American crew chief responsible, an army private, was in hospital suffering shock.

A U.S. Army spokesman said the helicopter shooting occurred Thursday when the crew chief was thrown off balance during a turn and the cord of his microphone caught in the trigger.

Nolting will be replaced here by Henry Cabot Lodge, former U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

OTTAWA (CP) — A formal investigation into the collision July 20 of the ore carrier Tritonica and the freighter Boucheg Head in the St. Lawrence River will open Aug. 13, the transport department announced. The Tritonica sank below Quebec City with a loss of 33 lives.

REGINA (CP)—A strike of 100 Loblaw employees in three Saskatchewan stores moved through its 14th day Friday without any talk of settlement.

Clerks employed in Loblaw stores in Regina, Moose Jaw and Saskatoon walked out to support demands for an increase of 21 cents an hour spread over three years, and fringe benefits. Wages for male employees range from $1 to $1.75 an hour.

The Regina and Saskatoon stores have remained open but the Moose Jaw branch was closed when the strike began July 26.

Loblaws announced Aug. 1 a wage increase of 17 cents an hour spread over three years for its Saskatchewan employees.

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

IT STILL GOES: "In regard to your so-called column, It Beats Me, it also beats us what you know about sports. I have helped to coach and manage boys in baseball and soccer for quite a few years and one of the most respected men in baseball was the umpire in charge of the game you wrote about in your column of August 8."

That's the start of an indignant epistle from Alex Ross of 467 Fraser Street. He's in no better mood at the finish.

"... It would be very nice to play for championships if you could pick your own umpires that suit you and your team. Is that your idea of sportsmanship? It sure beats us."

Mr. Ross, as experienced as he is about sports, has missed the point completely, and in doing so has by intimidation at least questioned the motives of Victoria Colt League officials charged with providing game officials for the sectional play-off with a Tacoma team.

No umpire was mentioned by name in the so-called column of Thursday morning and no personal opinion was given of the merits of the decision which caused the protest. The incident was used merely to again voice something that has been said in this space before—that all leagues are entitled to, and must for the good of their leagues, have the right to select their own game officials.

In intimating through his last paragraph that Victoria Colt League officials requested certain personnel from the umpires' association for the reason of furthering their chances of victory, Mr. Ross doesn't exactly display the sportsmanship he writes about. It not only unfairly discredits officials but also the umpires' association, which is out as those best fitted for the job. I'm certain that most of us believe that Colt League officials had no other motive than doing the job entrusted to them—that of providing the best available game officiating.

While this has to be a matter of opinion, the opinion that counts is to be that of the employer. No reasonable person can deny that league officials should not have the right of selection of game officials. In fact, for proper operation of any league it is a must.

The National Hockey League, the American Baseball League, the National Baseball League, the National Football League, the Canadian Football League, the Inter-City Lacrosse League, college conferences or any well-run organization which employs game officials retain the right to name them. Not for a minute would they entertain the thought of accepting personnel arbitrarily assigned by an umpires' or referees' association.

Will Cain, a Little League director for some time, and Bill Mundie, chairman of the protest committee which dealt with the protest of the second game of the Colt League sectional play-off, also called about the column which has aroused Mr. Ross' ire. But both understood what was being said, and both concurred with the argument.

Mundie explained the reason for the ruling made by his committee, stating that under baseball rules when an over-throw bounces into stands that runners are entitled to two bases. He also said that his committee had not been informed about ground rules set up previous to the start of the series and made the decision by the rule book. He did not think that the protest committee had been slurred and he agreed that leagues should have the right to select game officials.

"I just wanted to call and say that Little League has had good relationships with the umpires' association," Cain said, "but we have demanded, and won, the right to not accept anyone who is not suitable to us. And when we wish we name the umpires we want for any game."

He, good man, found the column "good" and I don't believe that anyone—at least not many—feels that Little League in getting the right to name its own officials has done so to improve its chances of winning championships.

No one denies anyone the right to disagree with arguments which are presented here, or anywhere, on any subject. If Mr. Ross believes that it is quite right for umpires to form an association and use it as a club to force their selections on leagues that is his right. I may believe he is wrong but unless he gets personal, that is all I have the right to think about him. But by putting a wrong interpretation on what was written, perhaps out of loyalty to a friend, he charges that I "insulted" an umpire, doubt my knowledge whatsoever about sports on my part and triumphantly winds up with "is that your idea of sportsmanship?"

It beats me, too. There is no quarrel here with any umpire as an individual and it is quite possible that my assessment of them would be considerably different than those of Colt League officials. All I said was that it is my opinion—and it is one shared by everyone I know who has credentials that even Mr. Ross would recognize—that an umpires' association is wrong when it attempts to withhold from leagues which hire its members the league right to selection of association personnel.

Mr. Ross has every right to believe otherwise but his rebuttal, and that is a very kind word, is not quite what one would expect from a fellow who "has helped to coach and manage boys for quite a few years."

MELBOURNE, Australia (CP-AP)—Only a major upset could give Canada first place in the Commonwealth women's golf tournament as it goes into its final round here today.

The Canadian women defeated New Zealand 5-0 Friday, halving one match, but even an overwhelming triumph today over Australia would likely leave Canada behind Britain.

The British, who whipped the Canadians 5-0 with one match halved Thursday, meet New Zealand in the final round and are heavily favored.

Canada and Australia enter the final round tied for second, Australia having defeated New Zealand in the opening round Thursday before losing 4-2 to Britain in Friday's play. But the Australians have six individual match victories to Canada's five with two halved, and if they tie today the individual matches will be the decisive factor.

The Canadians had everything their own way when they played New Zealand.

WIN EASILY

In the foursome, Toronto's Mrs. Margaret Stewart Streit and Mrs. Judy Darling Evans of Hudson Heights, Que., beat Una Wickham and Mrs. Jean Harrison after four holes. The New Zealander fought it back and squared at the ninth.

Miss Harrison was 2 up with two to play after the 16th but Miss Hitchens coolly took the 17th and 18th. The New Zealander bunkered her third shot while Miss Hitchens put hers 11; Miss Hitchens and Pat Harrison squared at the 18th; Rae

'All Good Citizens Of Birch Stripe'

By JURGEN HESSE

All Negro demonstrations in the United States are Communist-inspired, says a Victorian who thinks the extreme right-wing John Birch Society is "a wonderful thing."

"All good Canadians are of the Birch stripe," says Richard Hoskin Duce, 2119 McLaren, a British-born U.S. citizen and former Canadian citizen who says he will perhaps try to regain his Canadian citizenship.

Mr. Duce was a real estate salesman in Victoria from 1907 to 1914, joined the Canadian Expeditionary Force overseas during the First World War, went to Hollywood in 1929 where he became art director of 275 short films, and returned to Victoria a year ago. He is now 77.

Here is a sampling of his views:

● "Mrs. (Eleanor) Roosevelt was Red as hell, she should have died 20 years ago."

● "The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (in the U.S.) is Communist-inspired."

● Under the urging of outside elements they (the Negroes) want something in 10 minutes that should take 10 years;

● "U.S. President Kennedy lives in a segregated area, he won't send his children where the niggers are;

● "The biggest traitor the U.S. ever had was (Franklin Delano) Roosevelt—he started the give-away program to the Communists, he supported Russia in the war;

● "I hope that Canadian immigration (authorities) do not encourage Negroes to come in—it would only cause dissension."

The jovial Mr. Duce recently returned to Victoria from 10 years in retirement in California.

While sipping a drink and occasionally interrupted by his German-born wife, Charlotte, with the German endearment "Schatzi"—"Dearie" (Canadian)—continued:

$3,500,000

"We the taxpayers (in the U.S.) spent $3,500,000 to put a Negro (James Meredith) in a university (at Mississippi) that didn't want him. The Kennedy administration is bordering on dictatorship."

Mr. Duce likes to show visitors his plums, pears and peaches growing on trees in his Oak Bay garden.

He says when 250,000 "niggers" moved into Los Angeles, the trouble started, they became new-rich.

Asked what he thinks of the Jews after a remark he had made earlier, Mr. Duce says:

Cooked Them

"I worked with Jews for years—they took possession of Germany, they started the inflation until Hitler cooked them in the ovens."

Mr. Duce says he hates anti-semitism "as

Richard Hoskin Duce

such, but this is Christian country, and Jews are not Christian, they should not be in high places."

Is Mr. Duce a Christian?

"I believe absolutely in Christian ethics," he says.

"I come from a Christian family," says Mrs. Duce. "All our friends are Christian."

Assassins

Mr. Duce says Israel was "founded under false pretences, murder and assassination. The assassins of (Swedish Count) Bernadotte were in Jewish Israel government pay."

Do he and his wife go to church?

"I don't go very regularly," he says. "But my wife does."

"Christianity is at the lowest ebb ever," Mr. Duce says. "Ninety per cent of our clergy lack guts—they should fight for their principles."

"The clergy should go out and knock off the many splinter groups."

Then, pointing to a plum-ripening on a tree branch, Mr. Duce said:

"Isn't that a lovely plum?"

"Yes, Schatzi," said Mrs. Duce.

Mystery Death Described

Blood Coming from Mouth When Duncan Boy Treated

By KLAUS MUENTER

DUNCAN—A 16-year-old boy yesterday described the circumstances under which his companion, 14-year-old Hugh George Nesbitt of Duncan, died a mysterious death Thursday night.

He is Conrad Wohlers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wohlers who operate a dairy farm on Bazett Road.

The scene of the incident was about six miles east of Duncan, about 100 yards from the dead boy's home on Bazett Road where he lived with his mother, Mrs. Joan Nesbitt, and his sister Kathy, 11, in the home of his grandmother, Mrs. L. A. Farrell.

Police in Duncan yesterday morning said "Hugh George

Nesbitt and another youth were walking on Maple Bay Road at 9:30 p.m. and as a result of an undetermined reason the Nesbitt boy died a few minutes later.

"Four other local youths were involved and further investigations are being carried out. There was no direct violence apparent at the time, and no one is in custody."

Police said the boy died within minutes of the incident around 9:30 p.m.

Hugh Nesbitt

Almost Run Over

Conrad Wohlers said he and Hugh Nesbitt were returning from a walk to Maple Bay when suddenly a car almost ran over them. There were two boys and two girls in the car.

He said the car turned around and stopped about 70 feet from them, and one of the youths in the car called, "What did you say, kid?"

Hugh was said to have answered, "We didn't say anything," Conrad said the two boys jumped out of the car, and he said to Hugh, "Let's get out of here."

Conrad said, "One chased after me and I ran into a driveway nearby, and the other was after Hugh who tried to climb over a gate."

He heard one of the girls in the car shout, "Stop it, stop, leave him alone." Conrad said he did not see what, if anything, the two did to Hugh.

About four minutes later the car was backed up to the driveway where Conrad was hiding, stopped for a short while and drove ahead where Hugh Nesbitt was lying. There it stopped again.

Conrad said one of the boys said to the other in the car, "Oh, he is okay," and then they drove off.

Found Unconscious

He said when he ran to Hugh he found him unconscious and breathing heavily. "He had his face scratched by the cut broom where he fell, and there was some blood," Conrad said.

He said he ran to Hugh's home, and Mrs. Nesbitt came and immediately called the ambulance. Conrad said when the attending doctor applied artificial respiration he saw blood coming from Hugh's mouth.

He said he recognized the two boys in the car and said one is aged 17, the other 18.

Conrad said he was driven around in a police car to find the car but to no avail. Late Thursday two boys and two girls were interrogated by police here.

Conrad said he believed they had been drinking. Meanwhile the body of the dead boy was taken to Victoria for an autopsy and was viewed last night, Coroner Dr. J. S. Goodbrand said the date for an inquest has not yet been set.

Mayor Won't Sign

No Welfare For Men Fit to Work

COURTENAY—Next move in the "work for welfare" campaign started by Mayor W. C. Moore and his council this week will come Aug. 15 when the mayor will refuse to sign welfare cheques for able-bodied men who, he thinks, should work for their money.

He said this week he is annoyed when he signs welfare cheques for able-bodied men who could and should work. Some have been on welfare for years and are often seen inebriated.

The city pays 10 per cent of the welfare payments with the rest coming from the province, NOT ISSUED

When Aug. 15 comes and cheques are not signed nor issued, it is expected protests will be filed with the provincial government.

This is the second time Courtenay has been the centre of a welfare-money controversy.

A few years ago a social worker refused to authorize payments for some men and said they should sign up for the six-week civil defence courses being run by the army here.

Bomb

15 RCMP Probing Scare

NANAIMO—More than 15 RCMP officers in Nanaimo are working on the mystery bomb scare phone call which delayed a government ferry for more than five hours Thursday.

The call came to the office at Departure Bay while the government ferry Queen of Tsawwassen was about one quarter of the way on its trip to Horseshoe Bay.

The toll official who took the call said he immediately radioed the ferry captain because a time bomb had gone off in a ferry last year.

BLOW UP

A man's voice said, "That ship that just left is going to blow up half-way across."

Investigating officers searched the ship and found no evidence of a bomb.

At the time of the alarm the ferry was carrying 115 cars and about 300 passengers. Passengers were told of the threat but there was no panic.

Pirates Armed with Eggs Repel Buccaneer Flotilla

GANGES — Salt Spring Island residents turned out in full force Friday wearing pirate costumes for the first day of a three-day Pirate Days pageant which, it is hoped, will become an annual event.

A group of 60 pirates added to the excitement of the day by "attacking" the main dock at Ganges Harbor in a flotilla of small boats after their siege was temporarily blocked by another group of pirates armed with eggs.

Recreation Minister and Mrs. Earle Westwood were pelted and accidentally hit by about four eggs yesterday as they disembarked from the Queen of the Islands at Ganges on their way to the Pirate Days. Officials apologized and Mr. Westwood said he had never had "that kind of reception in my life."

Mr. Westwood officially opened the celebrations, and Mrs. Westwood crowned the pirate queen, Sharyn Reynolds, in an evening ceremony.

The crowning was followed by a square dance exhibition and a public dance.

More than 1,000 people attending the afternoon festivities, which featured a sky-diving exhibition into the waters of Ganges Harbor and a popular helicopter ride which provided a bird's-eye view of the proceedings.

Biggest fish of the day in the three-day fishing derby was pulled in by Ed Conery, of Salt Spring Island, who pulled in a 30:01-pound salmon.

Parksville Girl Wins Gold Medal

PARKSVILLE — Mount Arrowsmith Legion branch is proud of the achievement of Donna Van Norman, who represented the branch in the Junior Olympic trials at Vernon recently and brought home a gold medal for winning the midget girl's broad jump event with a spectacular jump of 16 feet, 6 inches.

Donna is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Van Norman of Parksville and is the only one of 19 young athletes from the north Island zone to win a gold medal at the meet.

More of the same is in store for the island's residents and visitors today and Sunday.

Four extra policemen have been called in to keep the party in check.

Doctors Try to Save Gun-Injured Hand

Farewell Sermon Sunday

Rev. William Clayton, of Parksville Baptist Church, will preach his last sermon at the church Sunday before leaving for Vancouver, where he will be second preacher at the Metropolitan Tabernacle. A farewell evening of music and singing will be held at the church Monday for Mr. and Mrs. Clayton and their daughter, Cindy.

NANAIMO (CP)—Doctors are trying to save the right hand of Harry Moutray, 17, of nearby Harewood, injured when a shotgun another youth was examining accidentally discharged.

The accident occurred Thursday at the home of Moutray's brother-in-law, Ken Bingham. Moutray and three other youths entered the home to feed pets and livestock while Bingham was on holiday.

They were examining Bingham's gun collection when a shotgun taken from a rack went off, hitting Moutray's hand from a range of four or five feet.

An unidentified passerby took Moutray to hospital by car. Doctors said it is not known yet whether he would lose the hand.

Board Interested In Indian Land

DUNCAN — The Cowichan

school board is interested in five acres of Indian land at Cliff's Road to secure a future school site.

At Thursday night's board meeting trustee Will Dobson said Indians owning the land are very interested in selling and would like to have a school built at the site.

Magistrate Winch Presides

NANAIMO—Magistrate Eric Winch Thursday presided at magistrates court in the absence of Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts.

Magistrate Winch's first case was a charge of leaving the scene of an accident against Allan McKay of Pine Street, Nanaimo. The new magistrate imposed a fine of $25.

It was noted to acquire the land several steps have to be taken besides the owners' and the board's consent. Indian departments at Duncan and Ottawa have to agree to the proposed sale.

Local Indian Agent Ron Sampson advised the board in a letter to make an offer for the land, and trustees will study the possible acquisition.

NOT DISCLOSED

How much money would be available was not disclosed. The board decided to buy two acres of land at the Sahliam School for $700 from George Whittaker who previously had filled a large hole at the school from that land, levelling an additional playing field without cost to taxpayers.

A school money-saving program proposed by the Cobble Hill Credit Union for Cowichan school district schools in unorganized areas will be studied by the board which wants to know how the program would work.

Lean Fry Share with Fat Fry

ALBERNI — Thousands of rainbow trout fry have been brought in during the past few weeks to share the fodder of over-fed fish in Alberni Valley lakes.

Dave Hurn, regional fisheries department biologist, Nanaimo, and game conservation officer George Vincent with Gary Randall and Dave Conah of Alberni District Fish and Game Association, released 8,800 fry in Flora Lake and 5,000 in Father and Son Lake, both in the Franklin River area, July 24.

Mr. Vincent reported that fry planted in Father and Son

Lake a year ago are now 12 inches in length, and the densities of Flora Lake are too fat to be interested in sportsmen's lures, showing the lakes were understocked.

On July 25, fisheries department biologists air-dropped 25,600 fry into Nimnim (Long)

Lake in the Ash River drainage area and 8,000 into Francis Lake west of Two Rivers Arm, Sprout Lake.

Table Lake, which is accessible from both the Comox and Alberni Valleys, received 10,800 rainbow fry in an air-drop, while 6,000 were spilled into Rowbottom Lake in Mount Arrowsmith vicinity.

Mr. Vincent is planning to walk into four small lakes on Mount Klutas within the next few days to inspect the stock of rainbows he and G. A. Weismiller dropped from Weismiller's plane last year.

Assure Alaska People Canadians Are Coming

Alaska residents "have to be assured the Canadians are coming," says the chief promoter of a highway linking Victoria with Port Hardy, opening a direct highway-ferry route to Alaska and Yukon Territory. "We know many people want the highway. We know the B.C. government is interested. And we hope that by 1965 the route is completed," says Alan Maclean, former owner of Campbell River's Painter's Lodge.

Mr. Maclean is also managing director of the North Pacific Coastway Association, Route of the Haida, an organization of Vancouver Island businessmen.

What is the aim of the association, formed 1½ years ago?

The proposed coastal route to Alaska "is the shortest and best all year round," says Mr. Maclean.

It would eliminate by 600 miles and many hours traveling time the present link with Alaska via B.C.'s interior to Prince Rupert.

It means Vancouver Island would become "Canada's corridor to Alaska," says Mr. Maclean.

The route would serve domestic, business and recreation travel on one hand, on the other it would facilitate commercial and industrial transport.

The president of Vancouver Island Gas Company, Dick Bond of Nanaimo, says the proposed new highway will have a greater effect on the

ALAN MACLEAN

Island's economy than the discovery of coal did in the 19th century.

He says the project will open up the entire north end of the Island for industrial and recreational development.

He says the extension would reduce travelling time over present routes by 10 hours despite a 16-hour ferry trip from Port Hardy to Prince Rupert.

Trucks and other traffic would cross to the Island from Vancouver, or Seattle, and after using the existing Island Highway to Kelsey Bay, would travel over a 40-mile extension connecting with the Port McNeill-Port Hardy Road.

The provincial government has set aside $7,000,000 for the project as part of a 10-year highway program.

Biggest accomplishment of the association is that "we are getting the right people to talk about," says Mr. Maclean.

"It's costing Vancouver Island a fortune for every day the route isn't in operation," he says.

North Island communities to profit from the route would be Port Hardy, Beaver Cove, Englewood, Port McNeill, Alert Bay, Port Alice, Juneau Landing, Coal Harbor, Sointula and even Holberg.

"The resources in that area—mining, fishing and forestry—constitute a year-round economy," Mr. Maclean says.

"Domestic travel and commercial transport would be the backbone of the new route."

Monday?

BCE Talks Set

Out-of-court discussions, aimed at simplifying the tangled B.C. Electric litigation, will be held "possibly Monday," Attorney General Robert Bonner said Friday.

The attorney-general, who made the statement at a press conference, said time and place had not been decided.

The attorney-general disclosed that Douglas McK. Brown, counsel for B.C. Power Corporation, parent body of the expropriated B.C. Electric, had written government counsel M. M. McFarlane, stating his clients were anxious "to start discussions and to outline what we think are the principal points requiring discussion."

Mr. Bonner said points suggested in the letter were:

'Welcome Parley'

VANCOUVER (CU)—"We have been ready all along to negotiate. This is a step in the right direction and as such we welcome it," A. Bruce Robertson, chairman of B.C. Power Corp., said last night.

Dam Pact Still In Doubt

VANCOUVER (CP)—A construction consortium is still awaiting assurance from the B.C. government that the $33,000,000 Peace River dam contract is valid.

The construction group, headed by Peter Klewin Sons of Canada Ltd., delayed $10,000,000 in purchases of supply and equipment for the dam project after Chief Justice Sherwood Lett's Supreme Court judgment that the government's expropriation of the B.C. Electric in 1961 was ultra vires of the legislature and thus the formation of B.C. Hydro and Power Authority the following year was invalid.

CONTRACT LEGAL?

B.C. Hydro let the contract for the giant dam and the contractors are seeking clarification whether the contract is legal. Meanwhile, minor work is continuing at the dam site.

A spokesman for the consortium said he did not know why it is taking so long to settle the matter.

"The lawyers are working on it but there have been no official meetings between the group and the provincial government."

PLEDGE NOT BINDING

The consortium's lawyers are reported to have said letters from Premier Bennett assuring the contract would be honored were not binding on the government.

The spokesman said the consortium is taking the position that it has not a firm legal contract.

Pointers on Marx

THIS IS RUSSIA
TODAY.

—$35
A Day

By ALAN HARVEY
Fifth of a Series

TASHKENT, Soviet Union (CP)—For $35 a day try anything once tourists can pick up pointers on Marxism-Leninism while lounging on stilt-like wooden platforms built along a river bank in sweltering central Asia.

Or you can take the golden road to Samarkand, celebrated in James Elroy Flecker's poem, and visit mosques and mausoleums from emperor Tamerlane's time; listen to the sizzle of shashlik in a sort of Communist Coney Island in Tashkent; or see enough historic buildings in Leningrad to last a lifetime.

Whatever you do, watch for the unexpected. Tourism in the Soviet Union is young, raw and full of surprises. Don't boggle at beetles on bathroom floors, and don't fuss about frills.

Maybe that $35-a-day tariff for de luxe tourists sounds high, but it includes hotel, bath, guide and a car three hours daily.

The system is probably unique. To prevent you from drowning in the murky alphabet soup of a Russian language that turns familiar symbols on their heads, guides meet you at airport or station and steer you safely through the formalities.

Don't Panic

Don't panic if English or French leaves the porter cold. The big hotels have "service bureaux" staffed with multilingual experts. Long before your visit ends, you learn to lean heavily on the interpreters, though they're sometimes tucked away out of sight.

For one traveller, a memorable moment came in dialectical discussion with a dedicated young Marxist-trained guide, a dark-skinned Uzbek named Bacht Zafarov.

The setting was idyllic. With weeping willows forming a shield against the Asian sun, we reclined in slippers on a verandah-style platform jutting into the Boz-su River near the Chatkal mountains.

These river-bank sanctuaries are called chahana, meaning "place for tea." They are cool, cosy and altogether delightful.

Slick Hair

Flicking back slick black hair over Oriental features and pouring strong green tea into porcelain mugs, Zafarov spoke passionately of the future Soviet paradise ("free transportation for all by 1970"), the unassailability of Marxist logic and what he called American "domination" of Canada.

Fellow tourist C. Paul Sandifur of Spokane, Wash., a finance company executive, replied that he personally would like to see Canada and the U.S. merged as one nation, bearing the name Canada if that would appease Canadian sensitivity.

He defended American policies but Zafarov wouldn't yield an inch.

His responses seemed as spontaneous as studio laughter at a television show. "Either you mean this, or you mean that," he would say. "If you mean this, cite one specific case to prove it."

Train Loot: $7,575,300

LONDON (AP)—British accountants have totalled losses of £2,523,100 ($7,575,300) in the world's greatest train robbery. Rewards for arrest and conviction of the robbers soared Friday to more than £242,000 ($726,000).

Detectives swarmed through race track crowds and shady drinking spots looking for a splurge of underworld spending.

The loot was easily spendable paper currency that banks were shipping to London for repulping.

K in No Hurry for Summit

MOSCOW (Reuters-UPI)—U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk flew back here Friday night after 2½ hours of talks and a game of badminton with vacationing Premier Khrushchev at the sunny Black Sea resort of Gagra.

Western diplomats said Rusk found Khrushchev in no hurry to further ease cold war tensions.

They said that Khrushchev apparently does not want a summit meeting now or in the immediate future as an aftermath of the partial nuclear test ban treaty, nor does he want to push, for the time being at least, his desire for an East-West non-aggression pact.

The Gagra talks were carried on in a "frank and friendly" atmosphere, the Soviet news agency Tass reported.

To See Khrushchev

Rusk, 54, flew to Gagra Thursday to see Khrushchev, 58, following the signing in Moscow of the partial nuclear test ban treaty by the United States, Britain and Russia.

After playing with Rusk, Khrushchev then invited Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and the Russian ambassador to the United States, Anatoly Dobrynin, onto the badminton court.

Then Rusk played Dobrynin, then Alexei Adzhubei, Khrushchev's son-in-law and editor of the government newspaper Izvestia.

Tass said Khrushchev also invited Rusk and the rest of the American party into the Black Sea for a swim, but Rusk declined saying his health was not so good.

In the American party were Mrs. Rusk; Foy D. Kohler, ambassador to Russia; and Llewellyn Thompson, ambassador at large and a former ambassador to Moscow.

Smashed by Police

Fortune Shoplifted By 40-Girl Ring

HAMILTON (UPI)—Police Friday smashed an all-girl teen-age crime ring that stole thousands of dollars worth of merchandise during a six-month shoplifting spree and operated with the coolness and ingenuity of professional thieves.

Detectives said about 40 girls, between the ages of 16 and 18, belonged to the gang and all attended Central Secondary School in Hamilton. Seven girls were charged, two remanded for a pre-sentence report, and police said others would be charged shortly.

The girls, operating in teams of three, victimized department and women's apparel stores in a definite pattern. When one trio finished another team would move into a store.

The loot, at first only chocolate bars and cigarettes included record players, portable typewriters, records and expensive clothing. Police said some of the merchandise was returned for cash refund.

Items of clothing includes dresses, coats, sweaters, expensive bathing suits and sportswear. The articles were exchanged among members of the ring.

Detectives Thomas O'Connell, Greg Cousins and James Williams uncovered the ring after a three-day investigation, sparked by the discovery of the hem from a stolen dress near the home of one of the girls.

They said few girls were remorseful although they readily admitted the thefts and even produced the stolen goods without police using search warrants.

Canadians Arrested In Paris, Montreal

$3,000,000 DRUG HAUL

MONTREAL (CP)—The RCMP Friday announced the arrest of two Canadians in connection with the seizure in Paris of 13 pounds of heroin—worth an underworld value of $2,000,000 to $3,000,000.

Police said it was the result of international co-operation by narcotics squads of Canada, the United States and France.

Two other Canadians were arrested in Paris, along with a wealthy Frenchman.

The Canadian arrests followed a series of raids on a dozen premises in both Quebec and Ontario.

Arrested in Canada were identified by Inspector J. R. Carriere of the RCMP as Roger LaPierre, 40, of Montreal and Anatole Ethier, 35, of Rockland, Ont.

NO DETAILS

Insp. Carriere said he had no details of the reported arrest in Paris of two Montreal men, Roger LaViolette, 40, and Alain Phaneuf, 30.

Reports from Paris said the two were arrested as they tried to embark by air for Montreal and that customs officers found a number of small plastic sacks of heroin under a false trunk-bottom.

WORLD MARKET

The wealthy Frenchman was identified in Paris as Roger Couderc, alleged to have been a major supplier of narcotics to the world market.

Insp. Carriere placed the underworld value of the drugs, when diluted for the market among addicts, at $2,000,000 to $3,000,000.

Marijuana Crop In Alberta

CALGARY (UPI)—Three New York citizens were charged Friday in connection with the growing of marijuana and illegal traffic in the drug.

RCMP said William Connaughton, 37, had been growing marijuana on a farm about 15 miles west of Cochrane, Alta. He pleaded guilty to charge.

Rosa and Jackson Burke pleaded guilty to a charge of being in possession of marijuana from the farm cultivated by Connaughton.

Silver Theft

Ex-Mine Worker Arrested

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP)—A former employee of United Keno Hills Mines Limited at Elsa, Y.T., was arrested and charged with theft of ore Friday following a police investigation into a mysterious shipment of $300,000 in silver ore to an American smelter.

Gerald Henry Priest was arrested in Vancouver by RCMP and was scheduled to be returned to Whitehorse today.

The arrest capped a two-week investigation by RCMP launched after United Keno lodged a complaint in connection with the shipment of about 80 tons of ore.

IMPOUNDED

The ore now is impounded in two railway cars at the East Helena smelter at Helena, Mont. It arrived at the plant two weeks ago.

"At least part of the shipment comprised stolen ore," Inspector J. L. Vachon of the RCMP Whitehorse detachment said. "We're not certain yet how much, but our investigations have revealed some of the ore was stolen."

Inspector Vachon said an accurate value of the ore still has to be made and "will be done as soon as possible."

Strait of Georgia

Three Firms Hovering

VANCOUVER (CP)—A British businessman says Vancouver and Nanaimo could be linked by a hovercraft service at a cost of $3 per fare.

The ride would take 38 minutes. A trip between Vancouver and Victoria would take 1½ hours.

The estimates were made Friday by Stuart J. Miller, representative of Westland Aircraft Limited, who is making a feasibility study of proposed trans-gulf services.

He said in an interview that the Gulf of Georgia offers a superb medium for hovercraft operations, and three organizations are interested.

The hovercraft rides on a cushion of air and can travel over water or flat land. It is not to be confused with a hydrofoil, which rides above the water on retractable skis.

The recommended model for gulf service weighs 37½ tons, seats 130 passengers or 12 tons of freight, and cruises at 65 to 68 knots. The $5 estimate is based on a 60 per cent load factor.

Chlorine Blankets Blocks Sending 275 to Hospital

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Poisonous chlorine gas escaping from a railroad tank car blanketed a six-block area of thickly-populated northeast Philadelphia Friday, sending more than 275 persons to hospital for treatment.

A fire department spokesman said the accident "could have been a real disaster" but a team of masked firemen, using a kit of special tools known as a chlorine capping unit, sealed off the leak before the gas could reach fatal concentrations.

As it was, hundreds of persons were sickened.

YELLOW CLOUD

The leak occurred as the chlorine, stored as a liquid under pressure, was being transferred from an 80,000-gallon Pennsylvania Railroad tank car, to a vat in the Wonder Chemical Company. Bursting from a broken line, the chlorine turned into a thick yellow gas cloud, heavier than air. The train crew was the first to suffer from its effects.

Pushed by the wind, the yellow cloud spread northward across a public housing project, where several hundred children romped on the playground or swam in the pool.

Police said children and adults overcome by the gas simply dropped where they were.

About three hours after the leak was capped, the cloud of gas dispersed. The fire department said the danger was over and the emergency units were being recalled.

Just two weeks ago, July 26, a faulty valve on a chlorine tank at a Reading, Pa., swimming pool sent 59 people to hospitals.

Double Tragedy Stalks Ceremony

DON TIN, South Viet Nam (AP)—Tragedy stalked ceremonies Friday which had been intended to send retiring U.S. Ambassador Frederick E. Nolting home amid a warm glow of friendship.

Nolting arrived from Saigon to find one of the jeeps in his official motorcade had run over and killed a three-year-old boy, and one of the three helicopters in his security escort had accidentally fired off a burst of machine gun bullets, killing a six-year-old boy and wounding five persons including the child's mother.

The American crew chief responsible, an army private, was in hospital suffering shock.

A U.S. Army spokesman said the helicopter shooting occurred Thursday when the crew chief was thrown off balance during a turn and the cord of his microphone caught in the trigger.

Nolting will be replaced here by Henry Cabot Lodge, former U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

Nolting
